NAACP Talks With Market Bog Down

A supermarket chain with Menlo Park headquarters and the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People may have reached an impasse in talks about employment of Negroes.

Discussions with officials of All-American Markets, which has headquarters in Bohannon Industrial Park, were at a standstill, H.E. (Dutch) Dremann, co-chairman of a negotiation committee, said Tuesday morning.

Officials of the supermarket chain were out of the office Tuesday afternoon and could not be reached for comment on the NAACP statement by this newspaper's deadline.

"We, the committee, are dissatisfied with the results of our negotiations," Dremann said in his Tuesday statement. "We are now planning policy in regards to possible future action in this matter."

Dremann, who shares the chairmanship with attorney Harry Bremond, said he could not say what type of action might be involved until more committee meetings are held.

However, alternatives such as boycott, picketing and selective buying were discussed when the South San Mateo County chapter of the NAACP met recently to form "action" committees on housing, employment and education.

Dremann said the chapter was particularly interested in determining if the chain was considering the hiring of Negro employees for its store at 812 Willow Road which draws some customers from the Belle Haven area.

Dremann also said that three Negroes have been employed by Littleman's Market in East Palo Alto. The committee learned, in talks with management, that the company had been seeking a qualified Negro retail clerk before the talks were held.

The NAACP official also announced that an advisory committee will be formed to coordinate activities of the South county chapter, Palo Alto-Stanford chapter and CORE (Congress of Racial Equality). Two members from each organization will be appointed and will meet regularly, he said.

The local NAACP chapter's housing committee, meeting in the home of Mrs. Glenda Forsberg in East Palo Alto last Friday, reviewed the new state fair housing law and charted action to implement it, Mrs. Forsberg said this week.

Some 20 persons attended and signed up for sub-committee assignments, she said.

Co-chairmen are Solomon Smith of Redwood City and James Madison of Menlo Park. Two sub-committees will work with prospective buyers and sellers of "open" housing and a third will attempt to study racial patterns in housing.

The area of study for the third committee was listed as Menlo Park, East Palo Alto, Atherton, Redwood City, San Carlos and Belmont.

Civil Rights Talk Set In Woodside

What's the relation of Woodside and Portola Valley to the civil rights problem?

This knotty question will be up for discussion next Wednesday night at the Portola Valley School during an open forum sponsored by the Portola Valley-Woodside Democratic Club. The program will begin at 8 o'clock in the multi-purpose room.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Francis Geddes, pastor of San Francisco's Fellowship Church and a noted freedom rider. His subject is "Freedom Now: American Dilemma Revisited."

The panel to discuss the civil rights question as related to Woodside and Portola Valley includes: Dr. Leroy Lucas, president of the Palo Alto-Stanford Chapter of the UAACP; Leonard Cornell, local real estate man; Joseph B. Williams, San Francisco attorney and vice-president of the San Francisco NAACP; Edward Howden, state chairman of the California Fair Employment Practices Commission; and Ricahd Stannard, local newspaperman.

Moderator will be Philip A. Barrett, president of the Portola Valley-Woodside Democratic Club.

Specially invited are members of the East Palo Alto Democratic Club, Menlo-Atherton Young Republicans, Menlo-Atherton Democratic Club, and the Palo Alto-Stanford Branch of the NAACP.

City Orders Trimming Of 'Big Hedge'

That 40-foot high "hedge" owned by Morton Baruh, 1340 Arbor Rd., may have to undergo a radical clipping.

The row of trees along a back property line does constitute a legal hedge, Menlo Park City Attorney John Jorgenson said at Tuesday night's council meeting.

And council members agreed that a 10-year-old city ordinance restricting fences and hedges to six feet in height apparently applied to the Baruh trees. They asked Jorgenson to inform Baruh that the trees must meet the ordinance requirement.

Especially pleased by the council decision was Baruh's neighbor, Mrs. B. F. Jakobsen, 1325 Johnson St., who had been seeking abatement of the row of trees as a public nuisance under terms of the city ordinance. Attorney Sam Morley represented her.

Councilman Ira Bonde said that the city's duty is "down in black and white" insofar as enforcing the ordinance is concerned.

Bonde said that he certainly wasn't in favor of stripping Menlo Park of foliage. The heavy growth of shrubs and trees in yards is one of the city's features, he said.

But the ordinance does not properly distinguish between private and public nuisances, he said, and a study of its revision might be in order.

Jorgenson suggested that he meet with Baruh and point out the city council's feelings regarding enforcement of the ordinances. "Perhaps we can get his compliance administratively," he said.

The council agreed to this course of action. And they also agreed to schedule the ordinance involved for possible revision. A public hearing will be held if this is done, they said.

City Council Accepts New Rec Building

The new Menlo Park Recreation Center, accepted by the Menlo Park City Council Tuesday night as substantially complete, will be the scene of official dedication ceremonies on Saturday, Aug. 10.

City Manager John R. Johnson said that the traditional ribbon will be cut at 10 a.m. that morning.

Then open house will be held from 10 to 4 p.m. with a second open house to follow on Sunday from noon until 5 p.m.

"We are inviting all of the residents of Menlo Park to come—especially those who played a big part in the effort to get the building," Johnson said.

Councilman James Calloway made the motion to accept. The action had been recommended by architect Kingsford Jones who noted that all but a few details of construction were finished.

Johnson said that furnishing the building should be completed by the dedication date. Landscaping should also be underway by that time, he said.

In connection with the latter work, councilmen called for bids on shrubs, trees, lawn seed and fertilizer. Public bids were required when estimates for the job exceeded the $2500 limit for non-bid projects. The bids will be opened on July 23.

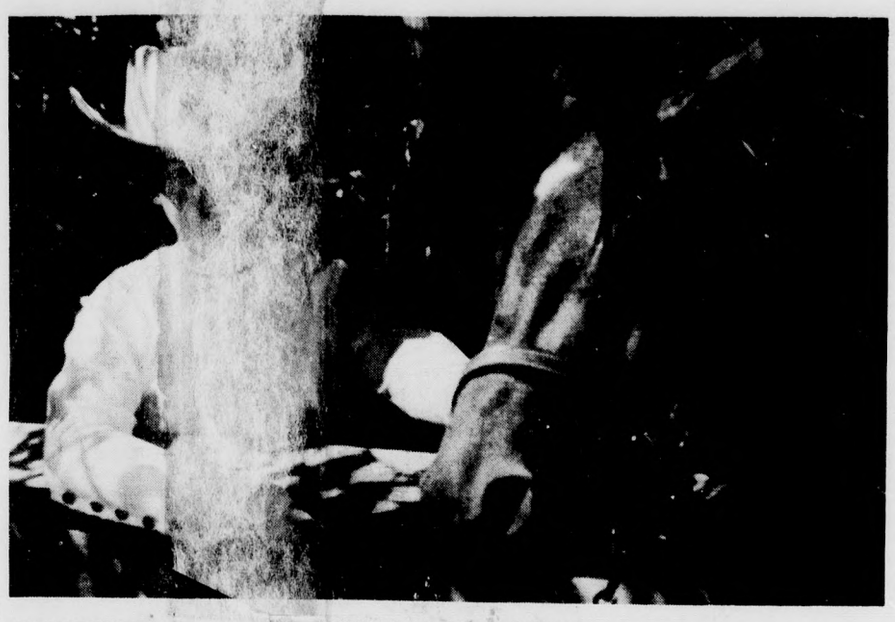

In other actions Tuesday night, the council:

—Accepted the bid of First of Arizona Co. for purchase of $8,250 in 10-year municipal bonds which will finance the bulk of the electrolier project for the residential area just south of Flood Park. The Phoenix firm's bond interest rate will be 3.983 per cent—a cost of $1780.

—Acepted with "great regret' 'the resignation of Dr. Frank Novak from the Menlo Park Civil Disaster Council. Dr. Novak will be asked to help find a new medical officer for the group.

—Reappointed John E. Wagner and Augustus Locke to new terms on the personnel board.

—Called for a July 23 opening of bids to revamp electric service to city hall, the city building department, Burgess Pool and Burgess gymnasium.

CONTESTANT . . . . . Candy Madigan, 17, of 52 Broadacres Road in Atherton, is a candidate for the title of "Sweetheart" of the California Rodeo and Horse Fair to be held at Salinas July 17-18. Cathy, a 1963 graduate of Woodside High School, is competing with 16 other girls for the title and for a scholarship. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Madigan.

Woodside Council Studies Possible Road Improvements

Woodside's 39-mile system of roads is badly in need of repair—so the town council suggested Monday that a property owners group might take on a road survey.

Sad condition of the roads was pointed up to the council by directors of the Woodside Valley Property Owners Assn. They asked the council to consider a survey to determine the long-range priorities for upgrading the streets.

The most inadequate roads were itemized by Road Commission Sam Campbell, and his rough cost estimates for a sampling of the repair work totaled $645,000.

Campbell described as "bad" all roads in the Canada Annex and Woodside Glen's areas.

The council suggested that the WVPOA be approached informally to determine if they would assume such a survey.

In other business Monday, the council:

—Adopted a preliminary budget calling for 1963-64 expenditures of $118,021, up less than $2000 from last year's budget of $116,292. The tax rate of 25 cents per $100 assessed would raise $38,607 on the estimated property value of $15,575,955.

—Continued to the Aug. 12 meeting a request by Portola Valley residents for annexation to Woodside.

—Approved building permits for interior renovation to the Apothecary and the Village Pub.

Atherton Boy Loses Coins To a 'Friend'

A short-time acquaintance of 13-year-old David Briggs of 102 Fair Oaks Lane proved himself no friend at all, last week.

The acquaintance was a 12-year-old boy, according to Atherton police.

July 4, he visited the Briggs home and, according to Atherton police, made off with a coin collection of David's, valued at $512. Police said he admitted the theft when picked up the next day.

However, in the meantime, he'd spent some of the coins for fireworks and exchanged others for folding money, so it appears it'll be some time before David gets his coin collection back into shape.

Police Chief Leroy Hubbard said the case has been referred to juvenile authorities.

Nativity Church Has New Pastor

(Picture on Page 2)

Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken last week announced the appointment of Father Edmund J. Ford as pastor of the Church of the Nativity of Menlo Park.

He succeeds Father Thomas McKeon, who died May 19 at the age of 81 after serving as spiritual leader of the parish since 1934. The parish is composed primarily of Menlo Park and Atherton areas between El Camino Real and Bayshore Freeway.

Father Ford has been a chaplain with the U.S. Navy since 1942.

A native San Franciscan, he studied at St. Joseph's college in Mountain View and St. Patrick's seminary in Menlo Park, according to the Monitor, archdiocesian publication.

Father Ford was ordained May 22, 1937, in St. Mary's cathedral in San Francisco.

He served as assistant pastor at St. Joseph's parish, Napa, and St. Brendan's parish, San Francisco before entering the Navy.

He will assume his duties as pastor of Nativity parish—the oldest continuously operating between San Francisco and Santa Clara—at the end of this month, the Monitor said.

Church of the Nativity parish was founded in 1873 and at one time included all of the southern part of San Mateo county within its service area.

The late Father McKeon first joined the local parish in 1914, serving as an assistant and officiating over mission Masses as far from the present parish as Woodside and Portola Valley.

Father Ford currently is being released from the Navy with the rank of commander. He was in residence at St. Patrick's for six years, while studying for the priesthood.

Father Arthur C. Davenport will remain with nativity parish as assistant pastor.

'Little Hope' Is Seen

Hillpark Homes of Los Altos has captured another victory in the battle over plans to create a "row house" garden apartment area on the Roger Reynolds nursery property property just north of Menlo Park's city boundary.

But Menlo Park officials, who oppose the high-density apartment concept haven't quite laid down their arms.

They acknowledged a major defeat suffered Monday night when the county planning commission gave informal but strong support to a somewhat revised plan presented by Hillpark Homes.

The commission was expected to make the decision a formal one at their regular meeting this Wednesday.

With this in prospect, Menlo Park officials are planning another presentation opposing the apartment plan when the Board of Supervisors reconsiders it on Tuesday, July 16.

City Manager John R. Johnson said at Tuesday night's city council meeting that some concessions had been obtained by the city in a Monday morning session with the developers.

These include:

—Provision for 40 more parking spaces on the Southern Pacific Railroad right-of-way easement which borders the nursery site.

—Construction of an emergency gate for fire district vehicles for improved access onto the property.

—A promise that a special taxing district would be set up within the apartment development to finance urban services. These include policing, street maintenance and landscape maintenance.

Johnson said that the city will urge that the later promise be made a part of the legal rezoning action if the supervisors decide to approve the project.

Councilmen discussed the issue Tuesday night with members of the Town Hall Association and Felton Gables, Inc. The latter is a county-wide taxpayer's group and the latter is a homeowner's organization representing the Menlo Park subdivision just across the railroad tracks.

"The Board of Supervisors is our only hope," said Mayor William R. Lawson, "and I'm not too hopeful about that."

The mayor noted that William Cusack, spokesman for Hillpark Homes, had said the firm would go for total development of 319 apartments on the tree-studded 9.1 acre site if the present plan, involving 223 garden apartments, is turned down. Present zoning would allow the 319 apartments to be built.

"I believe this is only a threat," said Admiral Ransom Davis of Town Hall. "That kind of development couldn't be marketed."

Councilmen were inclined, however, to think that neither the county commission or supervisors would attempt to find out if Cusack meant what he said about the 319-apartment development.

"The commission is convinced that this is the best way in which the land can be developed," Lawson said.

Stuart Hutchins of the Felton Gables group thanked the Mayor and council "on behalf of the city and its residents" for their effort to date.

Point of View:

Utility Firm, Hill Residents In 'Tower Talks

It's all in the way you look at it—"it" being the controversial high tower power line that Pacific Gas and Electric Co. proposes for the Skyline hills above Woodside and Portola Valley.

The line in question—a 5.3 mile spure that would connect with the Stanford linear accelerator—will be up for continued public hearing on July 25 before the Woodside Planning Commission. The utility's use permit application for the line is being considered.

An estimated 220 persons—the largest group ever to attend a Woodside Planning Commission meeting — were on hand for the first hearing, at which numerous residents charged that the above-ground line would be detrimental to the area.

Meantime, the Public Utilities Commission this week denied a request from 30 property owners to reopen hearings on the 20-mile transmission line, from which the spur line would originate. The commission said it had considered every allegation and decided there appeared to be no good cause for granting a new hearing.

PG&E officials at the first Woodside Planning Commission hearing offered to take interested town officials on an aerial tour of the power line area.

Opponents, however, don't feel a look from on high gives a true picture. They tend to take the horizontal or upward view.

With this in mind, the Save Our Skyline group featured at the first hearing an extensive display on how they feel the spur line will appear when completed. An artist has superimposed the towers and lines on photographs of various spots along the proposed route.

The SOS group says these photo-artist renderings give a true picture, are definitely to scale.

Much of the controversy rages over whether it would be economically feasible for PG&E to run the spur line underground.

Facts and figures are now being marshalled for the July 25 hearing.

Meantime, the PG&E has requested a hearing before the San Mateo Planning Commission on Aug. 14 as it awaits Woodside's pleasure.

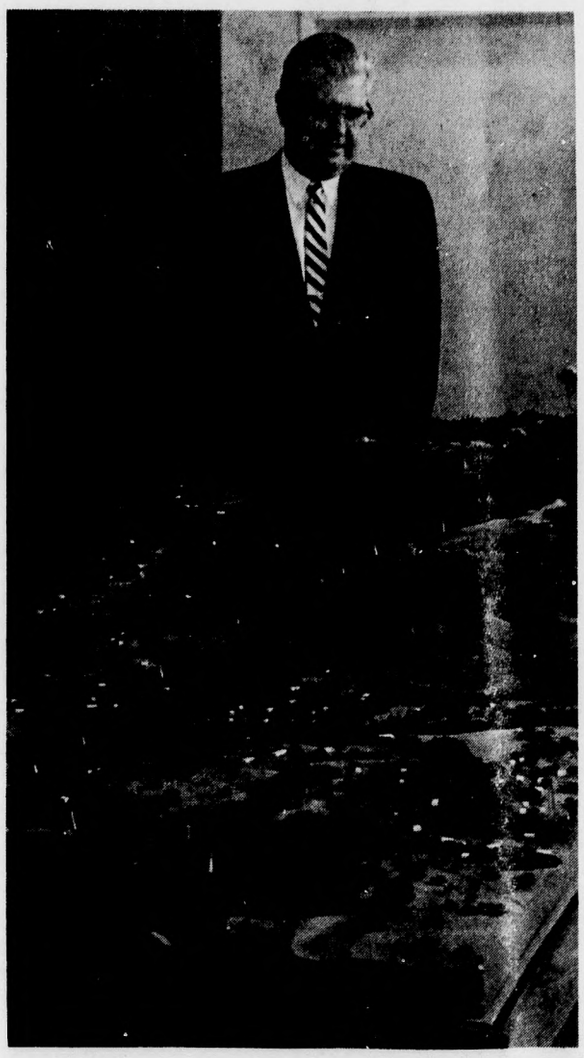

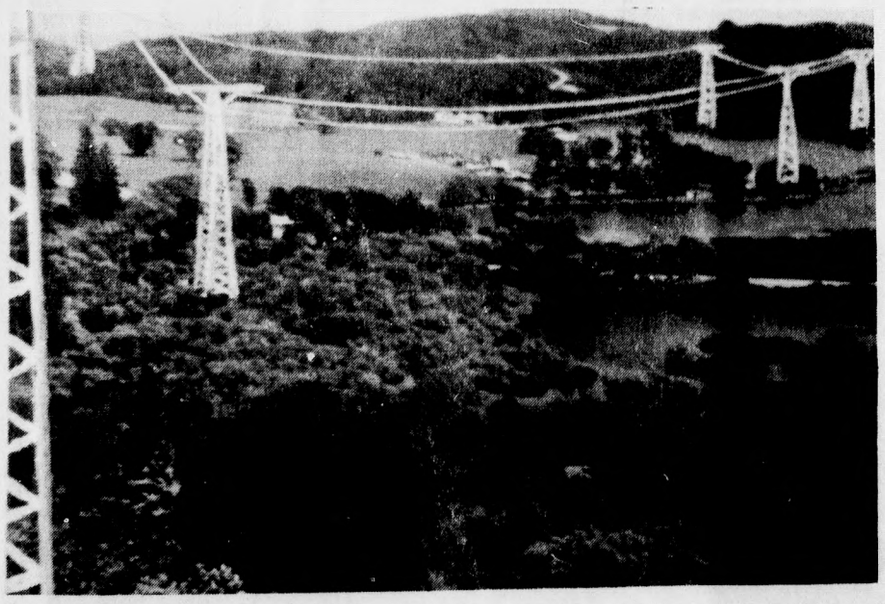

TABLE MODEL . . . . . of Pacific Gas and Electric Company's proposed "feeder" line to Stanford linear accelerator will be on hand July 25 at Woodside Planning Commission meeting. Adolph Imgrund, PG&E division manager in Redwood City office, surveys plan which has attracted strong opposition.

OPPONENTS' VIEW . . . . . of proposed Pacific Gas and Electric Co. spur line to Stanford linear accelerator shows where it will skirt south end of Searsville Lake. The towers and lines were superimposed to scale according to the artist. Several such views were featured at Woodside Planning Commission hearing on the line.

Police Jail Sextet Found in Pool

Atherton police early yesterday arrested six persons found swimming just after midnight at the Menlo-Atherton High School swimming pool.

And, promised Police Chief Leroy Hubbard, they'd continue to be stern with people found around the campus at night, in view of recent vandalism reported there.

One of those arrested was a 17-year-old girl, who was booked at Hillcrest. She and the five others, who were over 18 and booked at the county jail, were charged with trespassing.

Those jailed:

David Engleman, 19, 1111 17th Ave., North Fair Oaks; Albert Pitts, 19, 1219 Carlton Ave., and Carol Eppright, 18, Percy Littlefield, 19, and Sandra Swanson, 18, all of 1437 Chilco St., Menlo Park.

Auto Backfire Causes Damage

An auto driven by William Green, Redwood City, incurred an estimated $200 damage Friday, when it backfired, firemen report.

The car was being driven along the 400 block of Fifth Avenue when the mishap occurred, they said. It was a 1955 model auto.

Formal Action:

Dr. Hiram Mears Is Elected Head of School Board Here

Organization of the governing board for the Menlo Park City School District was the first item of business at the most recent meeting of the board of education.

Hiram E. Mears, freshman member of the board, was elected its president. Glen B. Haydon will serve as clerk of the Board and Elwood Williams was appointed to represent the board at the County School District Organization Committee.

The reorganized board then went on to accept with sincere regret the resignation of Mrs. Josephine Senft who has been a teacher at Hillview School. Mrs. Senft's husband is being transferred to the East Coat.

Two new teachers were hired for the elementary district. Mrs. Lynn Brothers will teach second grade at Encinal and Miss Mary Anne Langdon will have a third grade class at Oak Knoll. Mrs. Brothers is a Stanford University graduate with a masters degree. Mrs. Langdon is an alumna of Vassar and of Boston University where she took her masters degree. She has had teaching experience in Lexington, Mass., and in Connecticut.

The board also approved the plans of nine teachers in the district who are doing graduate work during the summer to improve proficiency in various subjects

In anticipation of tax receipts, the board adopted a resolution requesting the board of supervisors to borrow $280,000 for the school district during the 1963-64 year. This is necessary each year because the district does not maintain adequate reserve to operate for the first five months of the year, that is, for the period prior to the Dec. 15 due date for tax receipts.

A joint memo from Portola Valley and Woodside School Boards to the Sequoia Union High School District Board was read urging the financing of a study by an outside consulting firm to determine the feasibility of the Woodside Valley unification plan. The Menlo Park board concurred in the recommendation provided the selection of consulting firms was broadened to include several qualified firms and provided other districts were in agreement.

The board also announced that it was definitely making plans to hold another election unless a favorable decision on the tax election came from either the governor's desk or from the appellate court where the case was the brief involved is under examination.

Felton Gables Association addressed the school board in a letter protesting multiple dwelling units in the Roger Reynolds nursery property area. The letter stated the opinion that such housing would increase school enrollment and would result in additional expenses for school facilities beyond what increased taxes from the development would produce. The board did not take explicit action but agreed that the matter should be studied and asked administrators to request additional information from the developers.

NEW PASTOR . . .

'Boy Friend' Production Set at M-A

Music-drama workship of the Menlo-Atherton High School summer school will present the musical, "The Boy Friend," as the climax of the summer session, July 19-20.

Some 52 students are participating in the Broadway hit, which is being directed by George Ward. Donald Harriss will direct the music.

Members of the class have been working on the musical since the beginning of the summer session. The music-drama workshop course is being offered for the first time this summer; it is not usually given during the regular school year.

Performances of the musical are to be presented in the high school multi-use room and will begin at 8:15 p.m. each night of the presentation.

Ward points out that students participating are drawn from schools throughout the area, since several high schools do not have summer sessions.

Child's Program At the Library

"Memories of China" will be related to Menlo Park Junior Friends of the Library this afternoon when they meet in the library at Ravenswood Avenue and Alma Street.

Mrs. Maurice Coblentz, whose early life was spent in China as a missionary's daughter, is the guest speaker. She will bring an assortment of Chinese household items to show during the hour-long program.

School Official Urges Voter Registration

If you aren't a registered voter in the Ravenswood City School District, October 8 is closer than you think.

Asst. Supt. of Schools Craig Snasdell pointed out this week that closing date for voter registration for the bond election in October is Thursday, Aug. 15. That's just a little more than a month away, he said.

Local residents not now registered can do so by going to Menlo Park Fire District Station Two, University Avenue at Bell Street, East Palo Alto, or the district headquarters, Middlefield Road at Santa Monica Avenue, Menlo Park.

The election has been called by district trustees who are seeking voter authorization to bond the district to capacity. This, in turn, will enable the district to get into the state school facilities construction program and apply for a loan which would not increase the tax rate.

The district proposes to build one new elementary school between Costano and Brentwood Schools, a multi-use building at Garden Oaks School

House, Hay and Car:

Variety of Area Fires Cause Damage Over the Weekend

A variety of fires afflicted East Palo Alto and East Menlo Park over the long holiday weekend.

Most serious was the blaze which caused $5,500 damage in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McGee, 1346 Madera Ave., Menlo Park.

Neighbors turned in the alarm at 11:46 p.m. Monday, Menlo Park Fire District firemen reported. McGee, who had been away for just over an hour, arrived as firemen were battling the fire.

He had left his car with his wife where she is employed and caught a ride back to the area only to find the house on fire, he told firemen.

They said the blaze was started in a front room chesterfield and was apparently caused by careless smoking.

Another area fire ruined hay valued at $3500 late Friday near Bohannon Drive and Campbell Avenue in the Bohannon industrial tract.

Firemen spent eight hours —from about 4 p.m. to midnight—battling the stubborn fire. And they returned to the scene twice on Saturday when embers were fanned by winds and started new grass fires. Those calls came in at 9:15 a.m. and 3:40 p.m.

A total of 26 firemen responded to the initial alarm.

Another Friday fire resulted when Crafton Hatley, 1 Daphne Way, East Palo Alto, attempted to drive a car with a flat tire to his home. He was on Camellia Drive when the tire caught fire.

Local firemen estimated damage to the vehicle as $300. The fire alarm came in at 1 a.m.

A four-year-old child, playing with matches, caused a $150 fire at the Emanuel White home, 416 Wisteria Dr., East Palo Alto, on Friday morning. The alarm came in at 10:32 a.m.

Chan Designer Joins Firm

John M. McWilliams, designer of the Chan Administrative Research Park complex under construction near Woodside, this week has joined forces in the new firm of McWilliams and Iyama. His new partner, Shigenori Iyama, is the architect of Menlo Park's Vallombrosa Retreat House.

Johnson Elected Council President

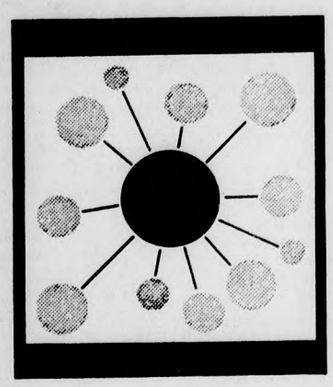

L. L. Johnston recently was elected for a second term as president of the San Mateo County Boy Scout Council. Wallace E. Ott, also of Menlo Park, was elected a vice-president of the group.

Both men long have been active in county Boy Scout organization work.

Ott also was re-elected chairman of the Live Oak District, which serves Menlo Park, Atherton, Woodside, East Palo Alto and adjacent unincorporated areas.

Escape Suspect Gives Self Up to City Police

Dovie Lee Mathis, 26, was in San Mateo county jail yesterday, after surrendering himself to Menlo Park police at 7 a.m. Tuesday. He'd been sought by officers since his escape Friday from an interrogation room at the Menlo Park police station.

He was accused of a shooting here late Thursday.

Police said the window of the interrogation room was going to be made more escape-proof. Mathis left it by cutting through the screen on a window.

Still at large this week was Dovie Carl Mathis, 26-year-old San Jose man who escaped Friday from the Menlo Park police station while being questioned in a shooting case.

Mathis fled through a screen window of the station's interrogation room early Friday morning, two hours after his arrest for firing a shot that hit his former girl friend in the head. The victim, 25-year-old Katherine Taylor, was treated at Palo Alto-Stanford Hospital and released after being struck above the left ear by a .22 caliber bullet.

The escape ocurred when Inspector Victor Cizanckas stepped from the interrogation room to see about Mathis' transportation to the county jail. Cizanckas was just outside the door a few moments—but it was enough for the quick-acting Mathis to make a break.

This marked the first time a prisoner escaped from the present station, according to a police department spokesman, and necessary measures will be taken to assure it doesn't happen again.

'Glorious 4th' Observance Caused Fires

In spite of their regular yearly warnings, the firemen during the July 4 weekend found themselves confronted with the necessity of putting out their usual spate of blazes caused by people celebrating Independence Day.

Not less than five fires, caused by fireworks, were reported. One of them involved a home; another a fence, and the other three involved grass.

At 9:57 p.m. July 4, the firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Emma Philyaw, 2342 Poplar Ave. in East Palo Alto, where a fireworks device somehow got onto the roof. They extinguished the blaze and estimated damage at $20.

At 6:35 p.m. the same day the firemen had been called to 2543 Hazelwood Ave., where a fence had caught fire as the result of the use of display devices. The firemen said there was no damage and added that the householder had extinguished the blaze before they arrived.

The grass fires were all reported July 5, and in at least two cases youngsters were involved, the firemen said.

The fires, none of which resulted in damage:

At 11:26 a.m., 380 Felton Drive;

At 11:52 a.m., 2382 Clark Ave.;

At 2:26 p.m., 3750 Haven Ave.

Man Is Shot On Street Here Tuesday

Police yesterday were investigating a shooting which occurred Tuesday night on a Menlo Park street.

Henry Louis Carr, 32, 504 Hamilton Ave., was the victim.

He said he was walking home by way of the 1200 block on Windermere Avenue when he passed a group of juveniles which had congregated in the street. After he passed them, he said, he heard a "pop" or "bang" like the explosion of a firecracker.

At the same time, he said later, he felt a stinging sensation in his thigh. But the sting went away so Carr thought no more about it until he got home.

Court Okays Election:

It Finally Appears School District Tax Is Legal

Menlo Park School Dilict trustees this week found themselves faced with the happy prospect of having to stop a special election.

The special election is still officially slated for Aug. 13 and its purpose would be to reapprove a district tax rate of $2.16 per $100 assessed valuation for the coming fiscal year.

But Tuesday, an appellate court decision overturned an earlier county Superior court finding which invalidated an April 16 balloting in which the tax rate legally was okayed by the district's voters.

There's a possibility that the school district trustees' tour of laws regarding election processes isn't over yet, though: Somebody might take the appellate court's decision to the state supreme court, for a final finding.

Deputy District Attorney Howard Gawthrop said yesterday that he would recommend that the school district drop its plans for the Aug. 13 election.

School district sources added that legally, this might call for the passage of a resolution cancelling the proposed balloting, by members of the district's board of trustees.

And meanwhile there was no official word from Sacramento, but as far as was known here Tuesday, a special bill which would have validated the election was still on the governor's desk.

Thus, as of yesterday, it appeared that one of the longest and legally complicated efforts to set a school tax rate was nearing an end.

In review, here's how the hassel went:

The Menlo Park School District, for the past several years, operated on a tax rate of $1.99 per $100 assessed valuation. This rate was to have expired June 30 of this year.

So, last year, members of the school district board submitted to the voters a proposal to raise the permisive tax rate maximum to $2.49 per $100 assessed valuation.

This would forestall an automatic drop in the rate to a statutory limit of 90 cents per $100, required by state law.

The $2.49 proposed permissive tax rate maximum failed to get approval of the voters in 1962, so the school board presented its projections and budget figures to a citizens' committee which met last fall and winter, under the chairmanship of Frank Lodato.

The committee came up with a figure of $2.16 per $100 assessed valuation as the unit they thought the voters would approve.

To forestall any future possibility that the rate would drop to 90 cents, they also proposed that it be made "open ended" and that it be reviewed three years hence.

The new permissive tax rate proposal was submitted to the voters on April 16. They approved it.

It was then discovered that a legal notice of the election—a normal preliminary—had not been published. The validity of the election could be challenged.

County Superintendent of Schools James Tormey, who himself accepted the blame for not having the notice published, initiated action challenging its validity in county superior court.

Last month, Judge Wayne Millington found that the election could not be validated because the legal notice was omitted.

But Gawthrop, representing the school district, appealed the decision to the state court of appeals in San Francisco.

This week, Presiding Judge This week, Presiding Judge A. F. Bray came up with his finding, in which he summarized:

"In our case, there is evidence of actual notice and widespread publicity in respect to the date, place and purpose of the election, to the residents of the district.

"Under the circumstances of this case, to invalidate the election because of the failure to publish the notice would violate the rule set forth in another case, which provided as follows:

"'The books are filled to overflowing with statements of the rule and substance that, wherever possible, from the standpoint of legal justice to validate an election, it is the duty of the court to do so'."

Lee Orr, Menlo Park attorney representing Tormey, said yesterday that he had not yet read Bray's decision and didn't know whether Tormey planned to have him appeal it to the state supreme court.

Thus, after two years, countless board meeting discussions devoted to it: several preliminary budgets, financial studies and cost and inflation projections, which probably consumed tons of ledger and duplicating machine paper; three elections, with appropriate hiring of officials and thousands of man-hours of precinct work and legal maneuverings which extended through the legislature and to the governor's desk, the school district has a tax rate which might support its operations for the next three years.

Observers speculated the whole thing might have to be gone through again at the end of that time.

Annual Report:

Chamber of Commerce Lists Activities of Year Just Past

Among the most important accomplishments of the Chamber of Commerce of Menlo Park this year included activities introducing the Better Business Bureau to the city, and seeing that Christmas time parking facilities were arranged downtown.

The organization assisted the BBB in processing of local calls, investigations, publicity, and on-the-spot field service, it was reported in the Achievement Summary, recently issued by the Chamber.

The list of achievements is long and reflects well on the chamber's policies.

Concerned with the downtown parking situation, the Chamber conducted informal meetings with property owners regarding downtown parking assessment district prior to public hearings.

The Chamber continued urging city acquisition of land for off-street parking, studied feasibility of double-deck parking and endorses seasonal restrictions on parking plazas and turnover parking near business establishments.

It studied with city officials the feasibility of ad valorem tax district, surveyed use of parking facilities of downtown professional employees, and studied and approved downtown parking assessment district.

Among other civic activities accomplished was the surveying of the downtown area as a first phase of citywide beautification in cooperation with city officials. It supported Merchants' Civic Development Committee to raise funds to enhance the central business district.

Still another project designed to beautify the city was the setting up of a committee to coordinate with city officials to enhance the appearance of the Southern Pacific building and area.

The local organization has also assisted League of Women Voters in voter registration and program objectives for 1963. It has set up office space for the League in Chamber of Commerce office. It has also distributed information and urged citizens to vote in the Municipal Election and promoted candidates' meetings.

Among its most important committee activities, concerning the future development of Menlo Park is the community long range planning committee.

It studied factors which will concern the city's future. These included inter- and intra-city bus transportation, rapid transit, over-lapping administrative and tax districts, south county road network, flood control projects, master plan amendments, and the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center.

Commercial and Industrial activities have included updating Business Climate Survey for South San Mateo County, publishing a business directory of major forms in Menlo Park, and assisting and distributing San Mateo County Development Association economic data "Facts and Rigures."

Prior to the Christmas season, the chamber conducted merchants' clinic on methods of shoplifters, forgers, and bad check passers.

In the field of transportation, it urged continuing plans for improvement of El Camino Real and an adequate cross-town traffic pattern. It also recommended traffic signals at specific intersections and studied effects.

Through the year the group has publicized and supported school bond issues, conducted Advanced Economics Discussion groups, published and distributed maps and satistical information on Menlo Park, and provided information for tourists, prospective residents and businesses through over-the-counter, telephone and mail services. It issued bulletins and special reports to the community.

But this is only a partial listing of its many services to Menlo Park; the Chamber's committees are constantly in action.

Examples of current committees include those designed to work for area beautification, area traffic, budget, civic development, economic understanding, education, executive, finance, fire prevention, government and taxation, long range planning, parking, and retail business council.

Statistics show that the Chamber of Commerce greets approximately 500 people each month, and the office receives about 600 telephone calls per month. Incoming mail numbers about 500, while outgoing mail numbers around 600 each month.

As is evident, the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce is an organization designed for the betterment of the city. It is geared to be a service for all community citizens and others concerned with Menlo Park's progress.

Edgar G. McLellan, former Menlo Park merchant and a peninsula businessman for the past 25 years, has joined Bank of America as an assistant vice-president in the San Mateo business development office.

Prior to his affiliation with Bank of America, McLellan was engaged in paint, hardware and furniture enterprises for five years, first as owner of Menlo Paints in Menlo Park and later as a partner and manager of San Bruno Paint and Hardware in San Bruno.

As We See It:

An Expert's Plan To Finance Education

A Stanford expert's suggestion to use a sliding scale of tax credits to help finance higher education has much merit in our view.

According to Roger Freeman, senior staff member at the Hoover Institution, colleges and universities could boost their tuition revenue by as much as $500 million annually under the plan without imposing undue burdens on parents of college students.

Freeman suggests parents receive a 100 per cent tax credit on the first $100 college tuition and fees paid for their children. They would deduct this amount from their final tax bill. Parents would receive a 50 per cent credit on tuition and fees paid between $100 and $500 and a 20 per cent credit on payments between $500 and $1500. Thus, the maximum credit any family could receive would be $420 per student.

Freeman points out that under his plan no church-state issue could arise, that the "federal control" argument would evaporate because existing relationships in higher education would be left undisturbed.

Recently, Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) introduced a bill along the general lines suggested by Freeman, stating that "the sliding tax credit schedule provides a senisible and workable system of federal assistance that helps every student, indirectly helps both public and private institutions, and does so in a manner that in no way interferes with individual or institutional freedom or policies."

We heartily share his hope that the Kennedy Administration will consider seriously requesting such legislation from the Congress.

Scenery Is Vulnerable But Must Be Preserved:

Summer time is a great time for relaxation. And while relaxing, it does no harm to contemplate some of the advantages of living in this area.

We all know what the main attraction is: Climate. It's the basic reason many of us or our parents chose to move here, it has attracted industry which provides the payrolls so we can stay here, and it allows us more time out of doors than is possible in most places in the world.

There are cultural advantages, too. Within 30 miles, there are several colleges and universities, an opera house, several symphony orchestras, theaters, sports arenas and scores of other attractions.

Then, there's the scenery. We are all pleased to contemplate the wooded hills which form a backdrop for the residential areas of the Peninsula, and we all also enjoy an occasional drive of just a few minutes duration, which takes us out of sight and sound of suburbia.

The scenery, of course, is the most vulnerable of the attractions of the area and the most likely soon to become less attractive or in shorter supply. This is in the nature of things, because as more people move to the area — prompted by the same considerations which brought present residents — they'll have to build houses somewhere, work in shops and plants situated somewhere, and indulge in cultural and leisure activities somewhere. "Vacant" land is the stuff scenery is made of and it's the only land available for such new developments.

It is heartening to notice, therefore, that the governments of San Mateo county and the city of Menlo Park are continuing to show great concern in land development and use. It is also heartening to contemplate the fact that the county is willing to budget money for the purchase of tracts of public land — the recent purchase of Coyote Point is a good example.

If future generations are to enjoy the scenic advantages which we do now, the policy of buying and preserving some scenic areas, and restricting the type of development allowed on others, will have to continue.

It's expensive, but there's no other way it can be done.

Plight of Pedestrian Becoming Critical

In a recent issue of The New Yorker was a disquisition on the plight of the pedestrian, in which we noted the following:

"More and more, our roads are being built without any lanes for pedestrians, even village streets often have no sidewalks. The blight has invaded suburbia. And now, in the city, you must wait for the lights, and even then, the turning cars toot their horns at you and wave you back. . . ."

Does this sound alarmingly like many spots in Menlo Park and surrounding area? We think it does.

The constant gobbling up of more and more land by automobiles — with its all too frequent lack of consideration for pedestrian activities — should be of prime concern to all of us.

The voracious cult of the automobile is an animal to be leashed with sound planning — and an educational program that will put human feet into our meaningful vocabulary once again.

Such, it is hoped, will help stem the tide that adversely affects public transportation, park and recreation facilities, and the more effective enjoyment of our California countryside.

Affairs of State:

Watch the Special Session

By ASSEMBLYMAN CARL A. BRITSCHGI
26th District, California State Legislature

The battles over state fiscal programs which scrambled the final hours of the recently adjourned 1963 Legislature have, understandably enough, been carried over into the current special session. Everyone is watching with interest to learn whether the lines drawn up for the earlier combats will hold firm in this meeting. The outcome of our deliberations will to a large extent depend on this one factor.

The three basic questions put before us for consideration are tax revision, budget increases, and state school support. Legislation relating to all of them was either lost, or badly mangled in the regular session.

The major elements in the Governor's tax revision program were putting the personal income tax on a withholding basis, eliminating this tax on the lowest incomes, revising the bank and corporation tax to make payments current, and changing the insurance company tax for the same purpose.

As originally introduced, these and some minor modifications in other taxes, would have increased estimated revenues by $160 million in this fiscal year, $150 million in the following.

The bills embodying this program successfully survived Assembly action, and came out of Senate committees without much damage. However, when the lead-off bill on bank and corporation taxes failed to get the needed two-thirds vote on the Senate floor on a second try, the remainder of the program was abandoned.

As an immediate result, the budget bill, the total of which was still close to the $3.25 billion originally requested, was cut back substantially, to $3.14 billion.

Independently, but still linked to the fiscal situation, the school support bill passed the two houses in different versions. It died when the Assembly rejected the Senate draft.

With this history fresh in our minds, we are now considering possible solutions for the problems in these three areas. Bills relating to all of them have been introduced. Others are still being dropped in the hopper. The appropriate commitees will have no easy task in weighing the various alternatives and arriving at quick answers.

The compromise tax bills suggested by Senate Republicans on the closing day of the regular session will have an incluence on the outcome. Reintroduction of tht Senate version of the school support bill, with its use of class sizes and teacher salaries in the formula for allocation of funds to school districts, will also affect the result on that matter.

Observers have pointed out that the action of the Governor, in slashing an additional $9.4 million in individual items from the budget before signing it, will have a powerful effect on legislation which is finally enacted at this session.

They direct attention to two facts. First, the special session was called to convene before the end of the bill-signing period for the regular session on July 26. Unsigned bills can therefore still be used to coerce votes in our current meeting. Second, is the fact that 18 of the 20 items cut by gubernatorial action relate to projects located in districts of Senators or Assemblymen who voted in opposition to the defeated tax bill.

Only one thing about this current session is certain right now. It will provide a climax to one of the most unusual legislative years California has experienced in a generation. People all over the state will be interested and concerned by our accomplishments.

"Fillers," the little two and three-line items at the bottoms of columns in newspapers, come from a variety of sources.

These came from a salt company:

A band of 1000 ewes will require 4½ tons of salt in a year's time.

Severe infestations of horn flies can drain up to a quart of blood a day from a steer.

A good rule of thumb for use in seasoning is to add one-quarter of a teaspoon of dried herbs for every four servings.

Beef stock is ideal for seasoning many vegetables.

"Maybe," commented the other, "he knows something."

Municipal Report:

School Proposal Rapped

A proposed special study of the south San Mateo County seschool district unification problem appears down the drain this week.

Advanced by the Woodside and Portola Valley Elementary School Boards, the proposal suggests that the consulting firm of Booz, Allen and Hamilton be retained to undertake a limited study of a four-district unification plan (Configuration LC). The latter would include proposed Searsville, Menlo Park-Ravenswood, Redwood City, and Carlmont Districts.

The San Carlos, Las Lomitas, and Ravenswood School Boards don't favor the study. Menlo Park school trustees concurred with the plan, provided other qualified consulting firms are considered and the other school districts go along with the proposal.

Proponents of the study reason that it should strengthen the four-district proposal next September, when a vote is scheduled on Configuration D (a proposal that would create two unified districts, Carlmont Unified District and one unified district of the remaining area in the Sequoia High School District.)

"Since members of the Redwood City, Menlo Park, Ravenswood, Las Lomitas, Portola Valley and Woodside Districts have publicly spoken in favor of the four district unification plan, and since it can be assumed that Belmont and San Carlos are also in favor (since either plan creates a separate unified district for their area); then the following is offered as a means of achieving an end which is seemingly desired by all the elementary boards," the Woodside-Portola Valley proposal reads.

"It would also appear that this plan is now viewed favorably by a fair number of the county Committee," the communication continues. "So, with a little further effort on our part, we may win the total augmented committee to our point of view."

The Woodside and Portola Valley School Boards said the study would likely cover the following areas of concern:

"1. How will the Redwood City unified district overcome a loss of the one thousand seats they now use at San Carlos? Surely an equitable formula embracing a reasonable span of years and a balancing of high school enrollments and a fair sharing of costs can be developed.

"2. Will ethnic factors be improved, particularly in the Menlo-Ravenswood area under either option open to voters? In the event unification is voted down in this area, but approved in all other areas, is a two-high-school district comprising the Menlo-Atherton and Ravenswood High School feasible, and would this improve the ethnic situation of the area?

"3. Since Woodside High School is located on Redwood City-Las Lomitas boundaries, should home boundary revision be considered in this locale to avoid troublesome attendance problems? For example: should Woodside Heights be in the Redwood City district since it is so close to Woodside High or should it be part of the Searsville district since it now is in the Las Lomitas area?"

The Woodside and Portola Valley trustees feel that satisfactory solutions to these or other similar problems will go a long way toward winning support from all or a good part of the County Committee.

"While these problems are not monumental, they do, none the less, demand some time consuming study before fair solutions are likely to appear," their letter reads.

"School adminisrators and transportation people will have to be consulted. The Negro community should be asked to comment upon Configuration LC as it relates to the ethnic problem. Other minority groups and the rights of the white majority can be taken into account, and if all seem reasonably satisfied, this will be a big facor in obtaining State approval."

$12,000 Bus For City Is Christened

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 25 years ago, this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, was news in the young community:

July 8, 1938:

Plans were made for the christening of the new $12,000 Pacific Greyhound bus "City of Menlo Park" on Sunday afternoon, July 17, by city officials and civic bodies of the city under the sponsorship of the Business Improvement Club of Menlo Park.

The ceremonies are to be held at the Central School grounds on El Camino Real and will feature band music, speeches by visiting notables and other forms of festivities.

Superior Judge George Henry Buck died in Redwood City on Tuesday of this week at the ripe old age of 91 years.

In 1874, he moved to Redwood City, where he arrived with 45 cents in his pocket and the doctor's decree that he only had a few years to live.

Alto Park Council Views New Policy Regarding Churches

Single-family homes used by churches should be restored —at the expense of the church —to residential usefulness once the church has moved out, the Alto Park Community Council declared last week.

The unofficial East Palo Alto planning body, concerned with the number of houses now being used by small churches, asked the planning commission to consider requiring the sponsoring church groups to post a bond for this purpose when they apply for a permit to use a residence for services.

The bond requirement might have two results—putting a house back into proper appearance with lawn replacing parking areas, and discouraging the start of too many churches of the same denomination in adjacent areas, the council indicated.

Councilman Marvin Glasner dissented. He held out for a request that the county do a complete review of its policy on church uses in residences.

Council members also voted support of a county proposal to begin study of street width lines for major East Palo Alto "grid" roadways.

They agreed that interior streets should not have plan lines set at present. This is also the current thinking of planning staff members.

Mrs. Alice Partanen, Council secretary, noted that setting plan lines for the major streets would allow property owners to know just how much land they will have left to develop should they decide to open up interior lots with new roads or cul-de-sacs.

Under consideration by the county are plan lines for Pulgas, Weeks, Garden, Clarke and Runnymede streets.

The planning commission has set a hearing for Aug. 14 on the setback proposals.

A report was made by Douglas Welch and Mrs.Eula Brown, council members, on meetings called by the Belle Haven Improvement Assn. with Menlo Park and Sheriff's office law enforcement officers

The Belle Haven group, Welch said, has been asked to form a committee and revive study of the police district system of solving policing problems.

Mrs. Brown said that some area residents decried what they feel is a lack of policing attention in the area. The feeling of the audience was that, if the same problems occurred in another area, police officials would do more about them.

The Alto Park group also:

—Heard Mrs. Mildred Larson describe plans for her apartment project on Weeks Street, including her statement that it will be landscaped and include eight trees now on the property. The 11-apartment building is being designed by a well-known architect, she said. Council members said they liked the looks of the plans.

—Also heard Mrs. Larson ask that the proper persons be contacted to get some cleanup work done at the American Legion Hall, University Avenue and Cooley Avenue.

—Agreed that authorities should be contacted to find out if street cleanup, specifically in the Bayshore Park area, could be accelerated. Mrs. Brown made the request.

—Heard Mrs. Brown report on the growing success of Community House, the inter-racial center for community activities,

Woodman Reports:

County's Assessed Value Tops Billion Dollars For '63-64

By FLOYD McCUE
County Information Officer

County assessments for the fiscal year which started July 1 topped the billion-dollar figure for the first time in history, County Assessor Ralph E. Woodman disclosed today.

The grand total was $1,006,912,042, excluding the public utilities roll, which will be set by the State Board of Equalization.

The total, however, includes $49,360,153 in exemptions for churches and veterans, among others.

Woodman said appraisers had covered every section of the county in the past year.

Particular attention was paid to areas where sales had indicated a marked increase of market values. However, new construction was the major contribution to the overall boost.

The secured roll showed an increase of $34,788,934 (5.3 per cent) in the incorporated cities for a total of $691,541,405.

The boost in the unincorporated area was $9,330,502 (5.7 per cent) to $127,194,516, making the total county secured roll $818,735,921.

The unsecured roll increased $10,389,225 to a total of $97,690,921. After adding the figures for in lieu assessments and solvents, the grand total comes to $1,006,912,042.

Pacifica led the cities in percentage of increase with 13 per cent, but San Mateo led in dollar volume with $7,022,061.

Atherton was low in percentage increases with 1.43 per cent, while Colma had only a $23,500 gain in volume.

Menlo Park's increase was 4.72 per cent. The 1962-63 net total of $51,951,771 climbed $2,453,404 to $54,405,175. The new total was seventh in dollar volume among the 17 incorporated cities.

However, the city was 13th insofar as percentage of assessed value increase was concerned.

Woodside growth resulted in a 5.24 per cent increase. Dollar value went from $14,800,500 to $15,575,955 — a difference of $775,455.

Atherton's dollar value growth was $413,955. Total assessed value this fiscal year is $29,384,325 as compared to $28,970,370 in 1962-63.

Despite an overall increase in assessments, the county isn't expected to improve its position in State Board of Equalization comparisons—which affect the tax rate.

The state asserts that the county is "underassessed". That is, assessments don't total as high as they should as compared to actual market value—as seen by the State Board of Equalization.

This year, the state ratio was 23.8 per cent of market value. If this holds for the next year, the county will lose ground rather than gain, Woodman said. San Mateo County's ratio last year was 21.4 per cent. It will drop to 21.2 per cent this year.

Woodman predicted that if the state ratio value remains the same as last year, county taxpayers will be subject to the same special school equilization tax of about 11 cents levied in 1962-63.

The public utility roll as established last year by the State Board of Equalization was $77,197,680, an increase of only two per cent over the previous year.

By comparison, state board officials forecast an overall increase of 6.5 per cent for the state. The trend of the board has been to keep utilities assessments at a slower rate of increase than the public roll.

Open Space Land Program:

Coyote Point Land Purchase Promises SM Recreation Center

Development of Coyote Point as a major recreation center for San Mateo County and enhancement of Coyote Point Yacht Harbor as one of the finest in the Bay Area was assured today through close cooperation of Congressman J. Arthur Younger with the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors and College of San Mateo officials.

When the College of San Mateo moves to its new location at College Heights this fall, Younger said, the county will be prepared to immediately acquire the 29 acres of Coyote Point occupied by the campus plus 294 acres of inundated tidal flats which will be partially filled and partially retained in their present state to augment the boat activities.

The county is buying the land from the government for eleven-twentieths of its appraised value when acquired by the college in 1954. The college, because it is an educational institution, was able to use the land free of charge for nine years and each year the land value was amortized 5 per cent.

Cost to the county will be $781,600, but through the Open Space Land Program of the federal government, as authorized by the Housing Act of 1961, 20 per cent of the cost to the county will be made available through federal funds, in the amount of $156,320, reducing the net cost to $625,280. County Manager E. R. Stallings said today that the funds have been budgeted and legal steps to acquire the property will proceed on schedule. The area must be used for recreational, conservation, historic and scenic purposes. The program is designed to prevent urban blight by providing for permanent open land use of the property.

Coyote Point was purchased from private owners in 1938 by the County Board of Supervisors, following a major political battle with then county manager Frederick Peterson who opposed the purchase.

In 1942 the property was turned over to the United States Maritime Commission who requisitioned it as a wartime necessity and the U. S. Merchant Marine Cadet Basic School was established there. Thousands of young men were trained there during World War II, and all of the present facilities utilized for the past nine years by the College of San Mateo, including buildings and swimming pool and athletic areas were built by the Maritime Commission.

Water and sewage were provided by the Cities of Burlingame and San Mateo as an aid to the war effort.

When the growth of the College of San Mateo became apparent, Congressman Younger, in cooperation with the college board of trustees requested use of the property and facilities for the college, which was granted on a no-cost basis in 1954.

When College of San Mateo made plans and secured passage of a bond issue for construction at College Heights, county officials, working with Younger, took immediate steps to regain ownership of the property for recreation purposes which will be culminated next month.

Younger said that the acquisition is a major step in the county's long term master plan which provides for acquisition of 6000 acres of open land during the next ten years to preserve the proper balance in development of the county.

ENDS TRAINING

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. —Marine Private Charles E. Weems, son of Ernest Weems of 744 17th Ave., Menlo Park, completed four weeks of individual combat training July 3 at Camp Pendleton.

As Principle Don Bogie Leaves:

An Era Ends at RHS

By DIANNE SIPPLE

"It is difficult to do honor to someone who has done so much and received so many plaudits. In our small way, we would like to represent every student who has come in contoct with Mr. Bogie and who, naturally, has benefitted from the association . . . our school has been a better place because of our principal.

"Every student at Ravenswood is proud of his school, and we feel this is due to the excellent guidance and support that has been given the school and students by Mr. Donald Bogie.

"Instead of saying 'good-bye, Mr. Bogie,' we want to say 'thank you'."

Thus is worded the Ravenswood High School yearbook dedication to Donald L. Bogie, who has retired as top administrator at the East Palo Alto campus this year.

Bogie has been educating and administrating in the Sequoia Union High School District for 39 years, but some of the biggest marks he has made have come through contributions to community organizations.

This active gentleman claims past and present memberships in the Masonic order, Selective Service Board No. 58, Key Club of Sequoia High School. And he is a member of the First Methodist Church, where he was Sunday school superindent and teacher.

He is a charter member of the Redwood City Toastmasters' Club.

He served on the PAL athletic commission from 1954 to 1957, has been active in the Sequoia YMCA activities since 1928, and was a member of the Redwood City Park and Recreation Commission.

Bogie served as campaign chairman in the 1941 Redwood City Community Chest drive.

The long-time resident of Redwood City was secretary of District 6-A, California Secondary School Administrators Association, worked on committaees of the San Mateo County Teachers' Association and attended the Governor's Conference on Youth in the years from 1950 to 1954.

These and an endless list of other community contributions earned him the title of 1954 "Redwood City Man of the Year." Other honors bestowed upon the retiring principal were honorary memberships in Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education fraternity, and Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary music fraternity.

Don Bogie was born in Waupun, Wis., on Aug. 4, 1897. His family moved to Puyallup, Wash., when he was 11.

In 1917, he graduated from Puyallup High School with scholarship rated as "superior," according to district personnel records.

His fine scholastic record continued when he went on to the higher education at the University of Oregon School of Agriculture in Corvallis, Ore. He earned his BS degree in 1923. Bogie attended University of Washington before he began studies at the Corvallis campus.

Twenty-six years later, Stanford University awarded him his MA degree in education.

After receiving his BS degree, Bogie joined the Oregon State teaching staff as a part-time woodshop instructor. In 1923 he taught shop and drawing at Tracy High School in Tracy, Calif. Then Bogie began his career in the Sequoia district as woodshop and mathematics teacher in 1924.

In 1928, he became vice principal and dean of boys at Sequoia, then the only secondary institution in the district. Since that time, Bogie has seen the district grow from one school to six and the enrollment grow from 450 to 10,000. In is 39 years with the district, he has missed only one day of school.

By no means will Bogie's time and talents go into retirement this year. He will go on serving the community he knows so well, just as every dedicated person never runs out of the desire to serve.

Bogie and his wife, Hilda, live at 25 Fulton St., Redwood iCty. They have two children, Howard Bogie of Stockton and Mrs. Jerry (Alice) Shantz of Fresno.

Donald Groshart Heads Eastward

Donald F. Groshart, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Groshart, of Menlo Park, is scheduled to leave for 13 months in the Far East with the 9th Marine Fleet, United States Marine Corps. He will be serving in Japan, Korea, and Okinawa.

He began training in December of 1962 at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego from which he was graduated in February, 1963 with expert marksmanship bade. He has been taking advanced training at Camp Pendleton, California, in the combat infantry at 81 mm. Mortar Division.

Donald is a 1962 graduate of Menlo-Atherton High School. He is a life member of Menlo Park Chapter, Order of DeMolay for Boys, and was a member of Menlo Park Explorer Scout Post 223.

United Promotes W. J. Mayer

Menlo Park resident W. J. (Bill) Mayer, line maintenance general foreman for United Air Lines at San Francisco International Airport, has been named aircraft maintenance manager for the airline in Denver. The appointment is effective July 1.

Mayer joined United in 1940 as an apprentice in Cheyenne. He transferred to San Francisco two years later as a line mechanic.

Mayer is a native of Johnstown, Pennsylvania. He and his wife, Lonetta, live at 2141 Ashton Ave. They have two children.

Amateurs Called To County Fair

The twenty-ninth annual San Mateo County Fair and Fiesta promises the most diversified and impressive display of floral artwork in its history.

Kai Frietag of Woodside, General Chairman of the Amateur Division, states that there are numerous openings still available for Peninsula gardeners who wish to contribute to the success and enjoyment of the Fiesta show by volunteering as hostesses.

Those interested are to submit their names at once through the presidents of their respective clubs.

Firemen's New Device:

Latest Thing in Rescue Truck Makes Appearance in District

NEW ADDITION . . . . . to the Menlo Park Fire District's heavy equipment is this 1963 model emergency squad truck, which arrived recently at district headquarters. Fire Chief George B. Carter is shown inspecting one of its numerous compartments, which will soon be stored with over 300 pieces of emergency apparatus.

Newest addition to the Menlo Park Fire Potection District is a "latest" model emergency squad truck, now being maintained at district headquarters, 300 Middlefield Road, Menlo Park.

The truck will be assigned to one of the other five district stations shortly. It replaces a truck which had been in service for more than 22 years.

Menlo Park's district received about 160 emergency calls in 1962 and most of these calls were serviced by one of the six emergency squad trucks then available.

Emergency calls include cases of heart attack, difficulty in breathing, obstruction in throat, excessive bleeding, drowning, automobile accident, drug overdose, convulsions, inhalation of gasoline, carbon-monoxide poisoning, fainting, and asmatic attacks.

Unordinary cases reported in the 1962 annual report include a child being trapped in a swimming pool, finger caught in a power saw, pain in abdomen, driver trapped in his automobile, adult trapped under his automobile, and a finger caught in a cake mixer. There are many other cases which are serviced by the fire department.

Most of the time the emergency squad trucks will accompany a fire truck during an alarm, since many times accidents accompany fires.

When loaded the brightly colored truck weighs 10 tons. Its numerous compartments are empty right now, but it will soon be equipped with more than 300 pieces of apparatus. The individual pieces of equipment will be categorized, then stored in a space along with similar equipment.

Already placed on the truck is a 15,000-gallon tank, two kinds of hoses, and a weaved metal basket, used in rescue operations.

A similar basket was used last year to rescue a man who had fallen off the Dumbarton Bridge. Rescue workers lowered the basket and themselves to the man who was stuck in the bay mud. They pulled the victim out and raised him to safety in the basket.

Power tools on the emergency truck are run by a gasoline operated generator. This power equipment includes a chain saw.

One compartment will be used to store jacks, crowbars ,and an assortment of odd shaped tools used to pry, pull, and push. Standard equipment on both fire and emergency trucks is a pike pole; a long handled wooden pole with metal spear tip and can opener device used for breaking open high or unaccessable places.

Also waiting to be placed on the squad addition are wire cutters, able o cut through 20,000-volt lines, acetylene torches, and first-aid kits. Resuscitators are kept on the fire trucks, and there is one assigned to each station, according to George B. Carter, district fire chief.

Leslie Smith Takes Course

Leslie C. Smith, vice president and manager of Wells Fargo Bank's Palo Alto branch district, is attending an eight-week resident course in executive development conducted by the Stanford University Graduate School of Business.

The program is limited to 60 men with approximately 15 to 20 years of banking experience. Besides management techniques the course stresses business-government relations, employee relations, and business policies.

The 44-year-old banker lives in Menlo Park at 2331 Branner Drive.

Collins Named To Bank Post

Calvin G. Collins of Menlo Park has recently been appointed vice-president of Bank of America's Stanford Branch, it has been announced. He will continue his job as manager of the Branch.

Born in Auburn, he began his 36 year career with the Bank of America while still a student at Stanford University in 1927. After three years as bank representative on the campus, he transferred to the Palo Alto Branch, where he successively held the positions of operations officer, lending officer, and assistant manager.

In 1955, when the bank opened the Stanford branch, Collins was chosen for the top post.

The family home is at 2073 Santa Cruz Ave.

Village Church Loses Secretary

Mrs. Jeanne Bost officially finished her duties last week as the pastor's secretary at the Woodside Village Church. Mrs. Bost would have completed seven years at the church this October.

Profile:

S. S. Mayo Retires After 35 Years with High Schools Here

Assistant Superintendent Scovel S. Mayo has retired from his educational duties, after serving 35 years, including five as principal of Menlo-Atherton, in the Sequoia Union High School District.

During his career, he has assumed the role of leader for numerous projects to update educational standards and has worked extensively on resituating boundaries, such as last year's Willows area to Ravenswood High School plan.

This mathematician and statistician has applied his knowledge to problems of education. In 1931 and '32 he served on the School Organization for the State of California National Survey of Secondary Education. He was a statistician and consultant on the Long Beach Salary Survey with Dr. E. E. Staffelbach in 1936, and he was regional survey director on the Commission of School Districts for the State of California in 1947 through 1949. These experiences qualified him to head projects for updating the systems of the district.

His concern over educational antiquities are evident by the titles of two of his nationally published articles, "Neglected Phases of Ability Grouping in High School" (1930) and "Toward More Fundamental Math" (1928). Mayo has written several other articles on education.

Mayo's early education was in Cheney, Washington, where he was graduated from Cheney High School and Cheney State Normal School.

In June 1922 he received his BA degree in education from State College of Washington. District personnel records show that he displayed an excellent scholastic record by receiving more As than Bs.

Six years later he received his MA degree at Stanford University and went on to one full year of advanced research and study at University of Oregon.

His first years of teaching experience were spent in Washington. From 1917 to '18 he instructed at St. John School, in 1919 to '20 he taught at Sprague School, and then went on to hold principalships at Thornton, Wallowa, Polose, and Pullman high schools.

During this period he was a qualified football and basketball coach, band and orchestra leader, and debate team adviser.

In 1927 he started his district career as a mathematics teacher at Sequoia High School. During the period between instructing at Sequoia and becoming principal of Menlo-Atherton High School on its opening in 1951, he served as director of test and measures, director of research, counselor, and principal of adult evening education at Sequoia.

He has taught courses in test and measuring at University of Oregon, Claremont College and University of California Extension.

Mayo and his wife, Mae, reside at 1740 Whipple Ave., in Redwood City. They have a son, David S., and four grandchildren.

Student Group Confers at Friends Meet

On Sunday, July 7 at 10:15 a.m. at the Friends Meeting House, a group of students will confront the Quakers with the Quakers' own values of the brotherhood of man.

The Student Action for Peace group is asking attenders of the local churches and temples, beginning with the Palo Alto Quakers, to examine their attitudes and practices in the light of their religious and ethical beliefs.

Specifically, these three questions are being raised: (1) Are the young men being encouraged to be conscientious objectors to war; (2) Are the older members employed in the so-called defense industries; and (3) Are thye paying the 60 per cent of their income tax which supports the institution of war.

40th YEAR—No. 28 THURSDAY, JULY 11, 1963 SECOND SECTION

MR. AND MRS. BRAYTON WILBUR, JR.

Judith Flood Becomes Bride

Judith Flood, great-granddaughter of the late California pioneer James C. Flood, became the bride of Brayton Wilbur Jr., June 29 at Our Lady of the Wayside Church in Portola Valley.

Gypsophelia marked the pews and white flowers and maple trees decorated the altar, where Right Rev. Monsignor Thomas J. Cummins married the couple. Judy was escorted up the aisle by her father, James Flood.

Swiss flowers on the bodice and skirt of the bride's long white silk orzanza gown extended to a medium train. Silk illusion fashioned her veil, which was secured by a cap of similar flower applique to that on her dress. She carried lilies of the valley.

Preceding Judy down the aisle was her sister, Elizabeth Flood, who was honor attendant. The bride's cousin, Mrs. Launce E. Gamble, and friends of the bride: Anne Harris, Melinda Menzies and Judy Bean served as bridesmaids.

Eric Dohrman of San Francisco stood as Brayton's best man. Performing usher duties were the bride's brother, James C. Flood, Launce E. Gamble, Carter P. Thacher, J. Atwood Ives, Marshall Walter, Robert Bransten and Henry von Mauer.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur will make their home in San Francisco after their Hawaiian wedding trip.

Judy, who made her Cotillion debut in 1959, is a former member of the Spinsters. She was also affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority while attending the University of California at Berkeley. She is also a graduate of Crystal Springs School.

Brayton's affiliations include Bohemian and University Clubs and Chi Psi fraternity. He attended Thacher School and Phillips Exeter School and was graduated from Yale and Stanfor University Business School.

Barbara Britts: Volunteer

"Blue Angels" Visit Vets Hospital

At least one "Blue Angel," who is doing volunteer work at the Palo Alto Veterans Hospital this summer has decided because of her experience working in neurological, surgical and medical wards to graduate to the white uniform and starched cap that will designate her a registered nurse.

For the past two years, Barbara Britts has spent every minute she could spare from studies and activities at Woodside High School to do the hundred and one tasks assigned a junior volunteer at the hospital.

This summer it is estimated that 200 teenagers are serving on one capacity or another at the hospital. The group to which Barbara belongs, which fluctuates between 60 and 100, is affiliated with United Voluntary Services, the group which Mrs. Mary Stern introduced at the Menlo Park Veterans Hospital and which she and Mrs. George Perkins, with the help of other UVS volunteers, spearheaded when the newer Palo Alto Hospital was built. The balance of the young people, both boys and girls, who donate their time to patient welfare, for the most part work independently of an organized group, rathtr than in the UVS nursing service. Recreation facilities for patients receive a great boost from volunteer help.

UVS became a significant part of community volunteer service when Mrs. Stern started to operate "The Haven" at the Menlo Park division of the veterans hospital complex 16 years ago. She has recruited a coterie of devoted women to the extraordinary tasks performed by the volunteer for such an institution and more recently the UVS has developed a junior corps—an increasingly valuable adjunct as Mrs. Stern's younger counterparts have aided and abetted her efforts.

Barbara is an ideal junior volunteer — dependable, unvaryingly cheerful in the face she presents to patients and able to be professional in her demeanor; that is, she does not become so sympathetically involved with individual problems as to lose her perspective. The over all problem she understands very well and therein lies her strength.

During the summer Barbara is holding down a job in Menlo Park and working approximately 16 hours a week at the hospital. During the school year, she works on Saturdays and on special holiday duty. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Britts of Menlo Park, are typical of Blue Angels' parents in their commendation of the volunteer activity. Parents feel, in general, that such service matures the individual volunteer and that in impressionable years they gain the knowledge through personal experience that life does, indeed, have its difficult side.

The Blue Angels take their name, in part, from the uniform they wear. Quite recently they were switched from the blue and white striped jumper they formerly wore to a blue jumper, blue blouse and blue cap. Their figures can be seen dotting the landscape as they escort patients from wards to treatment centers and clinic sections of the hospital. Other duties include the preparation of nourishment carts, the delivery of mail and the assistance of professional nurses.

Last week one of Barbara's patients, with whom she has been associated all through the two years of her hospital service was released to return to his home. One of his requests was that Barbara stop by to bid him farewell. The easy comradeship between patient and junior UVS member was ample testimony to the inestimable value ill people can derive from the attitude of optimism and hope inherent in a girl like Barbara and her counterparts. Continuity of service means a great deal, too, to both the staff and patient. Barbara, having received her certificate for 100 hours of volunteer service is very close to receiving recognition for 300 hours of donated time.

Plans for the future? After high school, she intends to enroll in Columbia University School of Nursing. After that she hopes to spend a term in the Peace Corps and after that, its back to the physical care and mental solace of the temporarily or permanently disabled for Barbara.

Her hand made lace mantilla was bought in Italy especially for the bride and was mounted on a Camelot shaped cap of peau de soie. Her bouquet was of white camellias.

Her attendants were dressed in strawberry pink frocks of organza over taffeta styled with overskirts. Their headpieces were hats of assorted garden flowers accented with large pink roses. They carried flowers like those in the headpieces.

Mrs. Joseph Robb was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Carol Howard, Mrs. George Rohrbacher, Mrs. Richard Panghorn, and Mrs. Terry Shade. Sherri Rohrbacher served as flower girl.

Other principal ceremony participants were best man, Lot Lau, and ushers: Marcel Roman, William Roman, James Howard, and Peter Snook.

Alan's mother wore a blue silk organza over taffeta sheath with an overblouse of matching lace. Along with her outfit she wore white accessories and a corsage of white phalaenopsis orchids.

A garden reception at Rickey's Hyatt House followed the ceremony. The Marble Court was decorated with white stock and gladioli. Linda Fay Sanford assisted with the guest book.

Following the reception a wedding dinner was given for the immediate family and bridal party in the Hyatt House University Room.

Arlene is a graduate of Sequoia High School and San Jose State College.

The bridegroom was graduated from Sturgis High School in Sturgis, Mich., and Stanford University in 1962. He is a member of the El Toro Club and is an associate scientist at Lockheed Missiles and Space Company.

Menlo Gardeners Compile Recipes

Best sellers in any book store, according to the experts, are found in the cook book section.

A new volume for those who cannot pass up a collection of recipes is being compiled by the Garden Club of Menlo Park. Their book will be published largely in the form of suggested menus with recipes for specialties detailed. It is being put together under the direction of Mrs. James Crooks.

The cookbook will be of special interest because the women who are compiling it are avid gardeners who also provide a well spread table for their families and friends. Because of the time they spend involved with soil and plants, they prefer menus that are not too complex, that can be prepared ahead and that will stretch to large crowds when necessary.

Two contributors will be Mrs. Lucina Lordan and Mrs. Sidney H. Barrett. Both women are serious gardeners with a fine knowledge of horticulture as well as an interest in flower aranging and the other allied interest that overtake "green thumbers." Mrs. Lordan has lived in her Santa Cruz Avenue home for six years. Her garden forms itself around a nucleus of four oak trees and of necessity shade plants are predominant. A portion of the property is devoted to apple trees and berries. Her recipes for meat balls, pickled zucchini and cheese roll appear below.

Mrs. Barrett, who also lives on Santa Cruz Avenue, is in the process of starting all over again as she and her husband have just recently moved to a new home. Her interests include container gardening and bonsai planting. The dessert recipes below are from her files.

Garden Club activities are varied with the evening meetings devoted to lectures and demonstrations on horticulture, planned with the special interests of the men members in mind. Daytime meetings include flower arranging demonstrations and workshops designed for the making of arrangements for holidays, particularly Thanksgiving and Christmas.

FRUIT PUNCH

- 1 C. each pineapple, grapefruit juice
- 1½ C. Sherry
- 3 Jiggers brandy
- 3 Tb. cherry juice.

* * *

MEAT BALLS (Serves 8)

- 1 lb. ground beef (ground 2-3 times)

Fry onion, celery and parsley briefly in butter before adding to above ingredients; mix thoroughly with a two pronged fork. Shape into 40 to 42 small balls (using heaping tsp. of mix per ball).

Sauce: Into fat remaining in skillet add 3 Tb. flour and stir, add 2 C. water and 1 C. claret or Burgundy wine (or use 3 C. water). Add 1-2 bouillon cubes, cook and stir until smooth. Taste and season if necessary.

Grind all together and mix well, make a roll and roll in chopped nuts (walnuts, peanuts, etc.). Let stand in refrigerator until firm; remove and roll again in nuts. Then return to refrigerator (serves 40 people when doubled, or 80-100 people when 1 lb. each cheese is used).

CELERY VICTOR

Wash and string celery, cut in 2 inch pieces. Simmer slowly in a can of consomme or bouillon made from the beef cubes, until celery is tender. Remove from heat and let celery cool in broth.

Drain celery; place in shallow dish and pour over celery your favorite French herb or Italian style dressing. Refrigerate, cover until chilled. Arrange servings on shredded lettuce. Garnish with pimiento strips.

PICKLED ZUCCHINI
(Antipasto Style)

Use 1 pt. screw top jar. Wash and trim 3-4 zucchini, cut crosswise into ¼ inch slices. Heat 3 Tb. olive oil in skillet; add zucchini and cook clowly until brown; drain in absorbent paper. Cool and place in jar.

Meantime combine the following:

- 2 Tb. olive oil

At Stanford Chapel:

Newlyweds Choose Peninsula Home

Approximately 100 guests attended the wedding ceremony of Geraldine Lazzareschi Calender and Robert M. Reynolds, July 17. Rev. Paul Heath officiated at the rites which took place at Stanford Chapel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Lazzareschi of Atherton. Robert's parents are Mrs. Frank Albain of Downey and the late Maurice Reynolds of Minneapolis, Minn.

Gerry chose a turquoise chiffon ensemble with matching hat for her wedding. Stephenotis formed her bouquet.

Mrs. Louis Ferrari of San Jose attended her sister as matron of honor wearing a silk turqoise print dress with matching nylon net hat. Her flowers were also stephanotis.

Carl Magnuson of San Carlos stood as Robert's best man. The guests were seated by nephews of the bride, Richard and Gerald Ferrari.

Decorations were on a pink theme at the home of the bride's parents, where the reception took place. The mother of the bride wore grey figured organza over blue satin with matching feathered hat. Mrs. Albain was attired in a beige suit ensemble.

Gerry left for her Pacific Northwest honeymoon wearing a powder blue suit. The couple will build a home on the Peninsula.

Attending the ceremony was Gerry's daughter, Susan Leigh Calender, and the bridegroom's children, Analee and Stanton Reynolds.

Robert attended University of Minnesota and received his Master's degree from Stanford University. He is now employed at Research Center: National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

On June 25 the bride was feted at a wedding shower given by her cousin, Mrs. David Diestel of Palo Alto.

Carol Hays Weds

Carol Joyce Hays chose a full length white gown of lace and silk for her June 29 wedding. The ensemble featured lace appliques on the fitted bodice over the full skirt. Her shoulder length veil was fastened by a white lace circlet, and she carried a spray of white stephanotis and ivy, which framed a white orchid.

Edward Alexander Grove claimed Carol as his bride at 2 o'clock rites in Messiah Lutheran Church of Redwood City. Reverend Kenneth Senft officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was preceded down the aisle by her sister, Jeanette Hays, who was honor attendant. Patricia Harlan of Menlo Park, was bridesmaid, and another sister, Karen Hays, served as junior bridesmaid.

They were attired in sheer pink frocks and their headpieces were of rosebuds securing short veils. Their bouquets consisted of tiny pink rosebuds.

Edward asked his brother, Grayson Grove, to stand as best man. James Grove, another brother, and Neil McCabe of Taft, Calif., escorted the bride's attendants down the aisle.

Usher duties were performed by the bride's brother, Bill Hays; Walter Prime of Menlo Park, and Terry Christensen and Anthony Thompson, both of Los Angeles.

Bouquets of white flowers flanked the altar, where Edwin S. S. Hays of Menlo Park gave his daughter away.

Mrs. Hays received guests at the church reception wearing a beige georgette sheath with lace bolero and matching accessories. Edward's mother chose a blue silk sheath with matching accessories and white hat for her son's wedding.

Del Sarto: 'Warren Spahn' Of Sunday Baseball Circle

By DAVE NEWHOUSE

To meet Tom Del Sarto is to like him immediately. To bat against him is another story.

If there was a throne for the best semi-professional pitcher in Northern California, Del Sarto would be sitting on it. In 14 years of "Sunday pitching", excluding four pretty-fair seasons in the pro ranks, Tom has logged in the neighborhood of 360 victories.

In the last two years, he has been unbeaten in 19 league games with Ellis Brooks, the San Francisco semi-pro champions. Overall, the left-hander is 28-2 with Ellis Brooks, having dropped 2-1 and 3-2 games, the latter in 13 innings.

Tom's best season for total wins came with the Palo Alto Oaks in 1958, where he recorded a 29-4 record. Local sportswriters have penned him the "Warren Spahn of the semi-pro's."

Del Sarto was 13-years-old when he worked his first semi-pro contest, in the old Las Lomitas League at Nealon Park. He has lived in Menlo Park all his life, presently residing at 298 Stanford Ave.

Tom is more scientific now in his pitching, then in his teens and early 20's, when he used to try and buzz the ball past enemy batters.

"My control's a lot better now than when it was when I was younger," Del Sarto said. "This is because I'm concentrating on getting the ball over.

"I have four or five different speeds on my fast balls and curves. Control and changing speeds are the secrets of pitching. Take Spahn. He seldom puts a pitch down the pipe (middle of the plate)."

Tom began making headlines while at Sequoia High School. He was All-SPAL in each of his four years, and had a 14-0 mark his sophomore season.

That year he was chosen to play in the annual Hearst semi-pro game at the Polo Grounds in New York. At the age of 16, Del Sarto is one of the youngest players ever to play in the classic. Tom vividly recalls how Joe DiMaggio put his arm around his shoulder.

Tom signed with the San Francisco Seals soon after graduating from Sequoia. Yakima of the now defunct Class A Western International League was his first stop and where he ended his dissatisfied affiliation with the Seals in 1954.

In 1950, Tom won his last eight straight for a 9-7 mark, followed by a 10-12 record the next season.

Misfortune clouded what proved to be Tom's big chance in 1953. He had won nine in a row with Yakima and had more confidence in his mound ability than ever before.

"The Seals wanted me as injuries had left them short of pitchers. But they had just brought up two players and Yakima wasn't going to let me go.

"The Yakima management told the Seals that they would walk out with the franchise if the Seals tried to bring me up," declared Del Sarto.

Disgusted, Tom finished out the year at Yakima, managing a 17-10 record despite a late season slump. Tom got his unconditional release the next season.

"You know confidence means the world to a pitcher," Del Sarto emphasized. "I never felt the same after 1953."

"Pro scouts tell me if I pitched then like I do now, I wouldn't have any trouble in baseball. But, you need that confidence to win."

Tom credits his success with Ellis Brooks to "Lovey", his very attractive wife and two jobs, which keep him busy.

"I'm always on my feet, so staying in condition isn't really too hard," he said.

"Lovey" (real name Rolla) encourages Tom to keep playing. She never misses a game, even if it means making a long trip to Santa Rosa or Yountville.

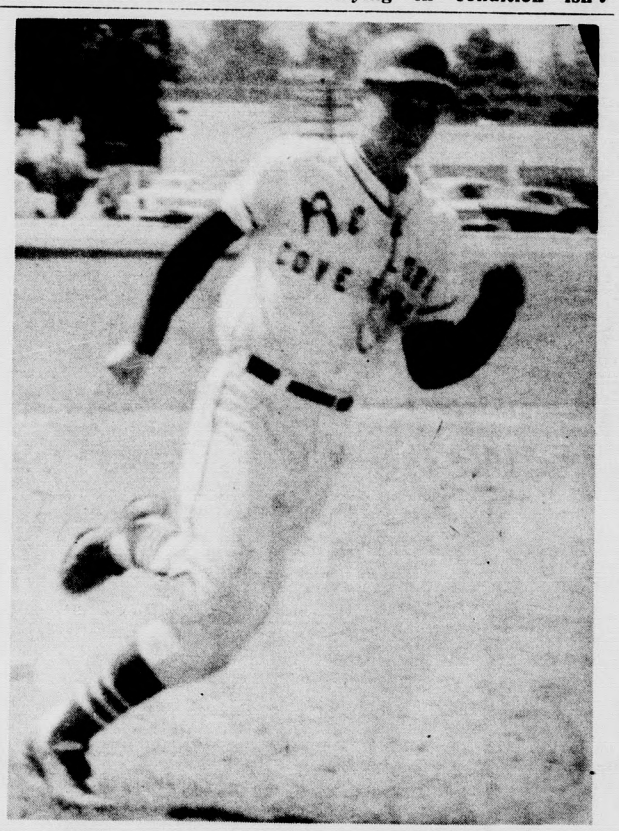

Ellis Brooks plays in the San Francisco winter league, then schedules hungry opposition the rest of the year. The automobile dealer club has lost only two close games. Tom was nipped in during his time with the club.

Tom had car trouble and didn't get to this year's championship winter game with Gino Benedetti's, until the latter had built up a 7-1 lead in the first inning. They were still at bat when Tom was rushed in. Del Sarto put out the fire and Ellis Brooks came back for an 8-7 victory and the league pennant.

Del Sarto is recuperating from a recent operation, which will keep him out of action until later this month. He has no plans to retire, but as a family man, realizes the importance of safety.

"It's easy to break a leg or catch a line drive coming back at the mound," Del Sarto pointed out. "Then who's going to feed the family?

"You've really got to be careful in this type of ball," he warned.

Two-Team Pileup Forecasted In Babe Ruth National Finish

Menlo Park Babe Ruth activity heads into the final turn today, with Flegel's and Johnson & Mape in the National League both determined to make the stretch drive a neck-and-neck battle.

Flegel's has a 1½ game lead over Johnson & Mape, as the latter lost an opportunity to gain some ground in a 5-3 setback to Lowe's. Rex has clinched the American circuit championship.

Scott Snedeker struck out nine as Lowe's scored twice in the seventh to break a 3-3 tie with Johnson & Mape. Rick DeZur collected three hits and Mark Elmo had a double for the winners. Ron Starr and Larry Manning divided four of the six hits yielded by Snedeker. Earl Downing socked a two-base hit for Johnson & Mape.

Colby Howe was a one-man show in Flegel's 10-2 victory over Menlo Mufflers, pitching a seven hitter and clubbing three hits, including a home run. Randy McClure added three hits to the Flegel cause. Dave Davis and Joe DeScala had two apiece for the Mufflers.

The home furnishers roared back from four-run deficit with seven runs in the sixth inning to turn back Lindsay 11-8. Bob Berg, who relieved starter Bill McMonigle in the sixth, got credit for the win. McClure banged out two hits for four RBI's. Three of them came across on a bases-loaded double.

Mike Ricaud had a double and triple among his three hits for three RBI's, Art Edge had two hits and Danny Gibson a two-run double, all for Lindsay.

Rex' Tad d'Arc, except for Roger Andrews, would have had an much easier time with Red Cottage. As it was, he hurled a three-hit 6-3 win over the Cottagemen. Andrews reached d'Arc for a double and triple. Dave Young, John Browning, Bob Bohle and d'Arc had all two base hits for Rex.

Outhit 10-7, Rex footed home plate more times than Peninsula Lithograph for a 15-11 marathon win. Bill Hagman, going to first four, was the winning pitcher. Mark Wise tossed the last three for Rex.

Hagman, with two RBI's, d'Arc and Ben Browning had two hits each for the carpetmen. Gary Strawther batted four-for-five and John Havard had two hits and two runs driven in for Pen Litho.

Johnson & Mape, behind the one-hit pitching of Starr, blanked Pen Litho 8-0. Havard had a fifth inning single off Starr, who struck out eight and walked five.

Bohannon, who wins big when it does win, stampeded Fox & Carskadon 17-9. Wilbur Jackson was the winning pitcher. Gary Hamilton and Dave Jefferson unloaded two-run homers for Bohannon. Hamilton had five RBI's and Jefferson batted a perfect four-for-four. Ron Dominguez cracked out two safeties, including a double, for Fox & Carskadon.

Dick Moldre struck out 10, before giving way to Pete Moy in the sixth, as the Crosby and Diegelman pair stopped Lowe's on two hits for an 8-1 win. Tom Farrell's three-run homer in the fifth sparked C&D. Hal Williams, Bruce Copenhagen and Farrell had two hits apiece for the winners.

Fox & Carskadon matched Lindsay's three-run outburst in the seventh with three of their own in the bottom of that inning for a 10-9 victory. Mike Rockwell and Greg Kendall each drove across two runs for F&C, Kendall's coming on a triple. Roy Alverez, with three RBI's, and Gibson had two hits apiece for Lindsay.

Red Cottage scored 11 times in the sixth inning, to overpower Hare, Brewer & Kelley 15-4. Winning pitcher Greg Ott, also batted out three hits. He had help from

OUT SCOUTING . . . . . Taking what he had hoped to be an unnoticed seat, was Giant manager Alvin Dark; seen here on one of his infrequent days off watching his son Gene play the shortstop position for Peninsula Lithograph in the Menlo Park Babe Ruth League. Dark's pleased expressio ncame after Gene had lined a single. Gene made some smoth plays in the infield and ran the bases well. Mrs. Dark is partially hidden behind the Giant manager.

Never Admit Uncle; Morey's Finally Catches Sport Shop

Morey's showed the rest of the American Little League that a lot of heart goes a long way, as they caught the previously uncatchable Shreve's Sport Shop, shut them out and moved into a first-place tie this week.

Chris Connaway of Moreys' had the Sport Shop confused for six innings as he blanked them 1-0 on a one-hitter. The two teams are now 13-3, and will meet Saturday in a crucial at La Entrada School. Game time is 1 p.m.

Rick Courter delivered a one-out single in the fifth inning off Connaway, who had retired 13 Shreve batsmen in order. The Derry ace struck out the side in the first and sixth innings, and had 10 overall. After Courter got his single, Connaway struck out the last four batters.

Connaway actually only faced 18 batters, the exact amount required for a perfect game. Courter after singling, was thrown out stealing by catcher Robert Hamilton.

Kelly Connaway scored the first Morey run in the second inning. He walked, moved to third on two pass balls and scored on an error by the catcher. Dan Roach of Morey's walked in the fourth, reached second on another pass ball, went to third on Kelly Connaway's single and tallied on a wild pitch.

Robert Zaro and Chris Connaway had the only other Morey base hits, both singles in the fifth inning.

Tuesday night, Morey scored five times in the third inning to turn back Derry's 7-4. Kelly Connaway, needing sixth inning relief help from Fiser, got the win.

Singles by Zaro, and Chris Connaway, Robert Hamilton and Kelly Connaway's ground ball RBI's, and a double by Fiser for another run batted in were the key Morey hits.

Zaro had three hits and Chris Connaway two, including a double for the winners. Roger Kemmerle sparked the Derrymen, with two doubles and a single in four at bats, driving in two runs. Mark Morningstar scored another Derry baserunner with a single and Alan Linn had a two-base hit for Derry's.

Don Morris tossed a four-hitter at Beh, as Seybold scored nine times in the fifth inning to whitewash Beh 12-0. Showing good control, Morris struck out seven and didn't allow a single free pass.

Eight Seybold batters walked in the wild fifth. Morris, David Locke, Marty Cattaneo, Bill Mayer and Doug Nunn were all given free passes with the bases loaded. Seybold only had one base hit in the fifth, a two run single by Rickey Fessenden.

Mayer, who batted a perfect two-for-two for Seybold's, had a two-run single in the sixth inning. Beh's big hit was a second inning double by Ken Futernick.

Preuss did all its scoring in the first inning to trip van de Sande 6-3. Paul Lorenzen, who pitched the first five frames and struck out 11, was given credit for the victory. Bill Ziebron tossed the final inning.

James Moriarty and Joe DiGrande walked to open the Preuss first. Lorenzen singled to left scoring Moriarty. Preuss loaded the bases and Ziebron walked to force home one run, with Rob Brassea's ground ball scoring another. A single through the box by Pat Havard drove in fifth run and an error on DiGrande's infield tap made it 6-0 Preuss.

Eddie Berg was the losing pitcher, although he didn't allow another run and only one more hit the rest of the way. Van de Sande, ironically, had nine hits.

Eddie Warner and Alex Lawrence singled in the van de Sande second, with Warner checking in on Mark Luckenbach's first of two singles. In the sixth Berg hit a "rabbit's foot" triple and scored on a pass ball. Steven White and Barry Howe followed with singles, and a one-base shot to center by Warner scored White.

Gregory Sagar and Seybold dumped Beh by a 8-4 score. Nunn had a triple and double for Seybold, scoring one run, with teammates Fessenden and Steve Vignau each driving in a pair. Dwight Janssen had two hits for Seybold.

Sagar gave up four hits, while striking out nine. Mike Ziebron had two of the four hits, Zagar yielded.

Seybold scored three times in the first and added four more in the second

Howard Walkup poled a bases-loaded triple and White a home run as van de Sande muzzled Beh 8-4. White, hurling the last five innings was the winning pitcher.

White collected three hits, Walkup and Warner two, Berg a triple and Luckenbach a double for van de Sande. Mike Ziebron's second inning homer was the big blow for Beh. Ziebron struck out 11 in a losing effort.

Baker Strikes Out 18 Men In National L. L. Feat

Kiwanis' Greg Baker accomplished possibly the greatest pitching feat in Menlo Park Little League history, as he struck out 18 batters in a 6-0 Kiwanis win over All-American Market.

Kiwanis is the National League leader and Baker, naturally, a member of the All-Star team.

Baker struck out two, then loaded the bases on walks in the first inning. He fanned the next batter. In the third, All-American bunched three hits to load the bases once more, but Baker bowed his neck and set the next two marketmen back to the bench on strikes.

A free pass, J.C. Crivello's single, Billy Herman's double and Baker's single sparked a four run Kiwanis first. Baker doubled home the sixth run in the fourth.

Baker gave up just three hits. Since Little League records are kept yearly, it isn't known whether any little guy in Menlo Park Little League play has ever topped Baker's K.O. production.

Lowe's punished the Rotary 12-3 as Ronnie Wade fashioned a one-hitter. George Andrews' fourth inning single to right field was the only Rotary hit off Wade who struck out five and walked the same number.

Wade slammed a two-run home run in the fifth inning and also had a single. Steve Furuta had three hits, including a double, in four at hats. Catcher Edmund Harris added to tie Lowe's attack with two more hits.

Lowes' scored five runs in the third and added four more in the fourth. All of Rotary's runs were on errors.

The Kiwanis dumped the Realtors 10-5, as Herman tossed a four hitter. The victors tallied eight runs in the first inning on six walks, a double by Bob Blanchard and singles by Herman, Gene Delyon, Tommy Haley and another single by Blanchard.

Lee South bombed a bases-empty homer in the fourth. Baker's second double of the game drove home Delyon in the fifth with the final Kiwanis Bob Strother had a single and double and drove in two runs for the Realtors. The Realtors went down on strikes.

Lowe's took care of the Lions, 9-5, scoring four runs in the fourth to settle the contest. Thomas Graves was the winning pitcher, hurling a six-hitter.

Graves won his own game with a two-run home run in the fourth, which broke a 5-5 tie. Edmund Harris paced an eight-hit Lowe's offensive with three hits. He drove in two runs with a double.

Richard Young doubled home the first Lions run. The Lions scored four more runs in the third, as Eric Snedeker and Young both singled and eventually scored. Snedeker and Young both singled andshrdl Young both hit safely twice off Graves.

All-American Market defeated the Rotary 6-3. Bill Sundquist was the winning pitcher, scored two runs and drove in two more with his second single of the game.

Batterymate Williams singled Sundquist home with the first market run in the opening inning.

Charles singled home a Rotary run in the first inning, then doubled and scored the first of two runs by the losers in the sixth.

Leonard Ely and the Realtors played to an 8-8 tie. Bobby Alums and John Strinnger paced a 10-hit Ely attack with three hits apiece. Bob Gautschi had two doubles in four times at bat. Bobby Chatman doubled home a run in a four-run Ely fifth.

Bob Strother tripled home two runs and Lee Taylor drove home another run with a three-base hit for the Realtors. The Realtors also had four runs in the fifth.

Miss Gay Allen from the San Mateo Humane Society will bring many unusual animals and tell about the work of the Humane Society.

Representatives from the West Peninsula Dog Training Club under the instruction of Mrs. Kay Harvey, will give youngsters some tips on dog training and also give a demonstration. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Gurnee's Play Keeps Braves Atop Atherton Little League

The Braves, thanks to the wicked bat of Tom Gurnee, held on to a one game lead by steamrolling to two victories in Atherton Little League scheduling last week.

Gurnee clouted two home runs in each of the Brave wins; 17-1 over the Giants and 9-4 over the Pirates.

Dave Andrews stopped the Giants on three hits, as Gurnee drove across five runs. Bill Moore added a home run to the 10-hit Brave attack.

Charles Martin's double was the only extra-base hit for the Giants, driving in their lone run.

Showing his prowess on the mound, Gurnee fashioned a four-hitter in turning back the Pirates. John Craft and Charles Bradley each had two hits and a home run for the Braves.

Jeff Hesselmeyer and Gavin Troster split the four hits allowed by Gurnee. Gurnee is the Atherton home run leader with seven.

The second place Tigers dropped a 4-3 squeaker to the Giants. Jim Sciaroni threw a seven-hitter for the win and scored the deciding run in the fourth on Steve Englert's double. Ron Hunt of the Giants also had a two-base hit.

The Tigers roared back with a 16-4 thrashing of the Pirates. Mike Meagher gave up a game leadoff homer to James Hutchinson, then settled down to pitching winning baseball.

Jim Fulton cracked out three hits, Doug Collom two and Steve Zadig a bases-empty home run for the Tigers. Doug Klick smashed a double for the only other notable Pirate safety off Meagher.

Ravenswood Warriors Unbeaten in Cage Play

Tom Crane's Ravenswood varsity and a kangaroo-like Warrior team are rapidly convincing Menlo Park Recreation Department summer basketball opposition that it's going to take a lot of chalk talk to unseat them from first place over the remaining two weeks of play.

The Warriors, who seem to hang onto backboards waiting for rebounds, are now 7-0, two full games ahead of the Rollins Realty Blues. Use to winning the close ones, the Warrior bunch had to really scramble to topple the Blues Monday night.

The Blues held a 35-26 lead going into the fourth quarter. But, the Warriors hit third gear and finally pulled out the victory on Don Pressley's 30-foot jump shot with five seconds left in the game. Paul Mathews led the winners in scoring with 11, while league-point leader John Arrillaga (113) bucketed 12 and Joe Braun 11 for the Blues.

The Warriors, led by Mathews 20 points, toppled Rollins Whites 58-46. Charley Wade added 16 and Pressley 10 to the Warriors point total. Cliff Walker had 14 and George Raybon 13 for the Whites.

Pressley sizzled with 26 as the Warriors notched their third win of the week in a 66-48 win over Project Assocites. Ted and Al Winfield each meshed 10 points for the Project five.

The Whites handled the Misfits 46-41 in a scoring battle of ex-Ravenswood cagers. Nate Branch totaled 12, Milky Johnson 11 and Raybon 10 for the Whites, while Jim Fields garnered 13 for the Misfits. All four are former Trojans.

Arrillaga was held to a season's low of seven points, as the Blues defeated the Misfits 48-43. Braun and Phil Kelly took up the Blues scoring slack with 16 and 11 points respectively. Gary Vanderway of the Misfits hit 11.

Bruce Steckel pumped in 12 and Al Winfield 10 as Project Associates stymied Congdon & Crome 58-34.

Congdon & Crome resurged to a 50-38 win over the Misfits. Bill Smith of C&C poured in 11 points, with Vanderway registering 15 for the Misfits.

Porject Associates knocked Rollins Whites out of second place tie with the Blues, nipping the Rollins quint 48-47. Al Winfield had 12 and Art Crum 11 for Project. Johnson guided the leaderless Whites with 14.

Arrillaga had a good night with 18 and Braun hit for 14 more as the Blues squeezed past Congdon & Crome 52-45. Ray Hamm netted 11 for C&C.

Mel Easley grabbed the A scoring lead from Woodside's Harvey Shank as Ravenswood continued to dominate league standings with a 5-0 mark. Woodside and Cubberley are tied for second with a 4-1 mark.

Easley stuffed in 19 points as the Trojans toyed with Carlmont 47-39. Shank had 13 as the Cats nipped Palo Alto 33-30. Easley now has 63 points and Shank 58.

Due to the Fourth of July holiday there was only limited A activity last week. Cubberley edged San Carlos 30-28 to barely hold on to its share of second place. Dick Brumm tallied eight as Menlo-Atherton halted Sequoia in another tight contest, 27-26.

Palo Alto moved ahead of Sequoia in the lightweight circuit. Rudy Cambra, top B scorer with 88 points, got 18 of them in a 34-31 victory over Woodside.

Terry Spoon of M-A, connected on a jumper with six seconds showing on the clock, as the Bears upset Sequoia 47-46. Israel Harris was high for M-A and the game with 16 points. Spoon had 13.

Charles Brockett scored 11 as Ravenswood rolled past Cubberley 37-34. Palo Alto showed its gratitude to M-A for upending Sequoia, by stymying the Bears 40-30. Harris had 11 in a losing cause.

Woodside found Sequoia easy game, and drubbed them 42-37. John Steckel tanked 14 and Bruce Leahy 11 for the Wildcats.

First Place Tie:

Adobe Post 828 Wins 'Must', Then 'Busts' in Legion Ball

Adobe Post 828 scored an important win, then "muffed" its chances to gain undisputed leadership in American Legion play over the weekend. Frank Bettencourt's club is now tied with San Mateo at 4-2 for first place.

Saturday, Adobe broke its then first-place tie with Redwood City 105, by scoring a 9-2 win in an eight inning game at Sequoia High. Dennis Ojeda took over after starter John Hofferd left the game due to a sore arm in the fourth inning. Up to that point, Hofferd hadn't allowed a base hit and had struck out eight.

Ojeda gave up five hits in pocketing the win. Redwood City had used up all its players by the eighth inning, so when one more was ejected from the game by an umpire, the losers couldn't put nine men on the field and had to forfeit.

Adobe had a five-run inning in the eighth. Ernie Berg singled in the first run, Mel Shuman drove across two more and Dick Burrill singled home Shuman. Burrill scored the last run, going to second base on a bad throw, moving to third on a wild pitch and scoring on a errant throw by the catcher to third.

Burrill and Shuman each had two of Adobe's 13 hits and three RBI's. Burrill socked a two-run homer in the fifth inning. Ernie Berg muscled three hits and stole two bases to move into a tie for the team leadership at 10 with Bob Burrill.

Woodside high's Steve Clark batted two for two, including a triple for Redwood City.

The Menlo glovemen had a 5-1 lead going into the eighth inning of Sunday's game with South San Francisco 355, then fell apart as the visitors chalked up a 6-5 win at Burgess Field.

Four singles, a passed ball and error gave Post 355 four runs to tie the game. With two outs Mike Ackley hit a home run, but missed second base, so only one run counted. But, it was the winning run.

With two gone in the bottom of the ninth, Russ Tweet and Berg singled, but were left stranded. Dick Burrill, who had a five-hitter until the tragic eighth, gave up 11 hits overall, as he went the distance. Adobe had nine hits.

Tweet had three hits in five at bats for two RBI's, with Dick Brumm getting two hits, including a double, good for another run.

San Mateo won weekend games with Redwood City and San Carlos to tie Adobe for the Legion lead. Redwood City fell into a third place tie with San Carlos at 3-3, while Millbrae and South San Francisco, with 2-4 records, are tied for the cellar.

Burgess proved to be a bad luck charm for the Adobe post Wednesday, as Hayward 68 measured the locals 13-6. Bob Anderson was the winning pitcher, as the East Bay nine outhit Adobe 15-10.

Mark Ackerman started for Adobe, giving way to Ojeda in the fourth. Ackerman received the loss. Steve Jarvis toiled the last two innings in his first mound stint of the season.

Hayward tallied two runs in each inning from the second through fifth. Jack Muniz clouted a two-run homer for the winners.

Berg and Tweet again paced Post 828. Berg had three hits, including a double, and drove in two runs. Tweet knocked in two runs with a double.

Shuman is currently the Adobe batting leader with a .343 average. Tweet and Berg are both hitting an even .300.

Greg Buckingham and Tom Ford with two hits apiece and Ward Walkup with a triple. Bob Fairbanks and Jim Harrison shared four of the seven hits yielded by Ott.

Bohannon broke loose again over Crosby and Diegelman by a 15-4 score, as Jesse Thompson fashioned a four-hitter. Cleveland Kanard powered a home run, and along with Wayne Mayeda, Jackson and Hamilton, had two hits. Dave Robertson's double was the loudest C&D hit.

Menlo Mufflers stopped Hare, Brewer & Kelley 6-3, ripping back from three runs behind to win. Chris Siegfried took over mound duties from starting pitcher Steve Morey for the win. The Mufflers were listless at the plate with two hits, but five errors by HBK opened the door to victory. Bob Wilhelm and Harrison had a pair of hits apiece for the losers.

In a makeup contest, Johnson & Mape toppled Pen Litho 8-5. Skeeter Chafey picked up the win on a five-hitter. Downing punched out two hits, Nick Vucinich had a triple and Hank Needham a double for Johnson & Mape. Dan Greenback smacked a two hits, one of which was a triple, and Kent Seltzer stroked a two-base hit for Pen Litho.

'The Apollo of Bellac'; Comedia Players Reply To Current American Musical Smash Hit

The Comedia Repertory Company is planning to present Jean Giraudoux' wry comery "The Apollo of Bellac," scheduled to open in early August.

The play might be called the French answer to "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," the current musical success. It is about a shy girl who comes to an Office in Inventions (typical invention: a book that reads itself) looking for a job.

She is ignored until a nondescript little man from the town of Bellac comes to her aid. demonstrating that she can have her way with any man if she will follow his secret and simple formula. The young girl proceeds to take her mentor's advice and works herself most successfully to the Chairman of the Board.

The play will be directed by Kathleen Brophy who has worked with the Camedia since 1960. Her last directing assignment for Comedia was "Through Brandenburg Gate," an original play. In the Fall she will leave the company to head the drama department of San Diego University.

The Comedia's newest musical presentation, "Fanny" will preview July 19 at 8:30 to the general public, before its first-night performance on July 26.

The musical was adapted for the Broadway stage from Marcel Pagnol's famous trilogy by S. N. Behrman and Joshua Logan with music by Harold Rome. Joshua Logan later wrote and directed the movie version starring Leslie Caron, Maurice Chevalier, Charles Boyer, and Horst Buchholz.

Aldo Bozzini, director of "Bells Are Ringing," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and most recently "Can-Can," is performing those duties for "Fanny," with Robert MacKinnon directing the music, and Celia Wilson directing the choreography. The costumes are being designed by Judith Dresch, in a turn-of-the-century French style; the settings are being designed by producer Peter Kump, and the lighting by Leland Basham.

The musical takes place in Marseille, France, and concerns the call of the sea versus the call of love among the earthy denizens of the old port city.

"Fanny" will play on Friday evenings in reportory with "Wildcat," the Lucille Ball musical comedy, which plays Saturday evenings at 8:30.

For further information and reservations call DA 6-6560 between the hours of 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Policemen Win Over Redwood Legion Post

The independent Police Athletic League baseball team of Menlo Park saw only limited action last week, winning its only game July 1 at Flood Park. Two other contests were cancelled.

The Police diamondmen handled Redwood City American Legion Post 105 by a 9-6 score, in a shortened five-inning contest. Mark Maloney, in relief of Dan Harrington in the third inning, was credited with the win, as darkness halted game play.

Redwood City, at the time was in a first-place tie with Menlo Park Adobe 828 in League Legion activity. They showed it in the first two innings at Flood, jumping into a 6-2 lead over the PAL club.

Sequoia's Gary Frohlich belted a three-run home run in the second inning off Harrington. Maloney struck out four, allowed one hit and didn't walk a batter, while his teammates ripped back for three runs in the top of the third and four more in the fifth to wrap up the game.

In the PAL fifth, Bill Leffler, Jim Baynes and Ken Baker all walked to load the bases. Charlie Siambri was hit by a pitched ball, forcing in Leffler. Team batting leader Bill Bonnat then doubled, driving home two runs and moving Siambri to third. Maloney clothes-lined a single and Siambri scampered home with the game's final run.

Baynes singled to open the second inning and Baker walked. The two pulled off a double steal and both scored on Steve Tipton's ensuing single.

Maloney and Gus Bayle singled in the third and an irate Harrington promptly doubled them home. Two ground balls, the last one by Siambri, and Harrington scored.

Maloney paced a seven-hit PAL offensive with two hits in four at bats. Redwood City collected five hits.

The Policemen are now 7-9-1 on the year. A July 3rd contest with South San Francisco Legion Post 355 at Flood was called off at the last minute

The PAL nine met the Palo Alto Legion post at Flood yesterday, and has a double-header against the Pittsburg Boy's Club Sunday at Flood. Game time is at 11 a.m.

The pool is at 371-45th St., adjacent to Oakland Technical High School.

Palo Alto Independents Unbeaten in Pony Loop

The unbeaten Palo Alto Independents powered its way to easy victories in South Peninsula Pony League action last week. Randy Bangham and John McLaughlin, a pair of strong right-handers, dazzled on the mound.

Bangham tossed a two-hitter as the Independents coasted to a 14-4 win over the Menlo Mixers. Bangham, who struck out 13, gave up hits to Jim Madigan and Darby Furest. Rick Browning batted out four hits in as many times at bat, Ted Carter has three hits for four RBI's and Bill Beahrs walloped a home run for the winners.

McLaughlin gave up one more hit than Bangham, in stopping Gleim's Jewelers 8-2. He also struck out nine and, along with Browning, had home runs for the Independents.

Ken's House of Pancakes remained in second place with a 5-2 win over the Mixers. Tom Barrett was the winning pitcher, allowing four hits and striking out nine.

Gleim's rolled over Palo Alto Lions 10-1, as Ron Davis is struck out 10 and picked up two hits in three trips to the plate.

The Lions clawed Sexton, Sossaman & Winston 6-4, in a contest that went nine innings. Mike McDonald came to the aid of starter Steve Davis in the eighth to gain credit for the win.

Public Angling Project Opens at Greyhound Rock Excellent Site for Surf, Rock Fishing, Abalone

Another public angling access project on the central California coast will be formally dedicated at 2 p.m. Saturday, July 13.

The site is at Greyhound Rock, off Highway 1, two miles south of the San Mateo-Santa Cruz County line or some 20 miles north of the city of Santa Cruz.

The recently completed project, including an access road parking area, walkways to the beach and sanitary facilities, offers permanent public access to 1½ miles of ocean frontage.

The area is considered excellent for surf fishing, rock fishing, and abalone picking.

Purchased and developed with $54,600 allocated by California's Wildlife Conservation Board, the project's facilities were constructed under contract by the County of Santa Cruz.

At Saturday's dedication ceremonies the WCB will turn the Greyhound Rock site and facilities over to Santa Cruz County for operation, maintenance, and free public use.

TROUT STOCKING

This week the following central coast area waters are scheduled to be restocked with catchable-size rainbow trout by California's Department of Fish and Game. Anglers are reminded that this list is subject to change, depending on water conditions and other unpredictable factors.

SAN MATEO COUNTY—Gazos Creek, Pescadero Creek.

SANTA CRUZ COUNTY — Fall Creek, San Lorenzo River. San Vicente Creek.

LAKE COUNTY—Anderson Creek, Kelsey Creek.

MARIN COUNTY — Bon Tempe Lake, Lagunitas Lake, Phoenix Lake.

SAN FRANCISCO — South Lake Merced.

MONTEREY COUNTY—Big Sur River, Carmel River, Los Padres Reservoir.

SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY—Nacimiento River below Nacimiento Dam and within Camp Roberts.

CLAM DIGGERS

A recent rash of clam digging violations brought a Department of Fish and Game warning that persons taking clams and other shellfish must have a fishing license and must observe bag and size-limit regulations.

DFG wardens have cited nine clam diggers in the past few days at Memorial State Beach Park in Alameda. Among them, the nine violators had a total of 3,728 littleneck clams, or 3,278 over the legal limit of 50 clams apiece.

Also involved were charges of taking clams without an angling license, and of taking littleneck clams less than the 1½-inch minimum size limit.

Five of the violators have already appeared in Alameda Municipal Court where they lost their overlimits of clams and paid fines to boot. These five cases also involved 74 undersize clams and two cases of taking clams without a license.

All of the clams seized from the convicted violators were given to Alameda County Juvenile Hall.

Inland fishing without a license topped all fish and game court cases prosecuted in California's central coast counties during the month of June, reports the Department of Fish and Game's San Francisco regional office.

All told, regional DFG wardens processed 257 cases through the courts during June, getting convictions in all but one. The results were $7,178.50 paid in fines, with probationary suspension of $660 in additional fines and 300 jail days.

Inland fishing violations accounted for 146 of the total cases and $2,620 in fines. Of these, 62 were 'no license' violations that drew $1,180 in fines.

There were 74 cases involving shellfish and clams, resulting in $2,671 in fines.

Tana's Hitting Moves Busy 'B' Into Summer Softball Lead

The "Busy "B", thanks to some timely hiting by Shibun Tana, scored a comeback 10-9 win over the Carriage last week and threw the Menlo Park Recreation Department's summer softball lead into a three-way tie.

Tana rapped out three hits in four at bats for Casey Maloney's "B" nine, the last of which driving in the winning run in the sixth inning of the game-shortened tussle at Nealon Park.

M. D. Johnston was the winning pitcher, weaving a seven-hitter against the Carriage who had pulled out a 9-7 lead in the fourth. Busy "B" had 13 base hits off losing pitcher Bob Anderson.

The "B", Carriage and Kelleman, who clipped SRI 6-5, are all deadlocked for the league lead at 3-1.

Kelleman scored twice in the fifth inning to decide the contest. SRI, trailing 6-3 in the bottom of the sixth, rallied for two runs, before winning pitcher Frank Jurian refused to budge another inch. Each team had ten hits. Jim Anderson was given the loss.

Jerry Luscatoff and Dave Distel had two hits apiece for Kelleman.

The Geats unleashed a 19-hit barrage that snuffed out ITT Kellogg 24-10. Bud Gowen allowed seven hits in picking up the win.

Jim Moran included a home run among his three hits, while Budd Egglinger batted a perfect three-for-three for the Geats. ITT Kellogg, oddly enough, held an 8-4 lead going into the fourth. Geat batting powered home seven runs in that inning, three in the fifth, four in the sixth, and added six more before calling it a night.

SRI sports a 2-2 record in fourth place. The Geats are now 1-3 and ITT Kellogg 0-4.

Pokey Watson Sets First Swim Mark

Portola Valley's Pokey Watson took part in a major record-breaking effort—her first—as the Santa Clara Swim Club's women's 400-meter relay team broke the American mark and narrowly missed the world standard in the "Million Dollar Water Show" at Foothill College July 4.

The foursome of Terri Stickles (1:02.0), Kerry Haines (1:03.4), Donna de Varona (1:01.5) and Miss Watson (1:02.4) easily broke the American record of 4:14.2 with a 4:09.3 clocking, just four-tenths of a second above the world record.

Pokey's time is extraordinary, since she's just 12-year-old and has considerably less national swim experience than does her three teammates.

The swim club's 400-meter men's relay tandem of Steve Clark, Nick Schoenmann, Don Schollander and Ed Townsend bettered the world mark in a time of 3:39.3.

Carol Rennie and Sue Jones were both caught in 1:21.1 in the 100-meter breastroke, bettering the American record by one second and tying the world mark.

Lantanas Perfectly Suitable to California Soil

Use The Want Ads—Phone DA 6-5580

Lantanas, those once lowly shrubs of California gardens, have undergone some remarkable changes in recent years. And if you haven't looked at them lately, it's time you did.

Hybridists have done wonders with this shrub, upgrading the quality of bloom without reducing the inherent ability to withstand heat, drought and unfriendly soil conditions. They have given us plants that are perfectly adapted to California's climate—in bloom most of the year, tolerant of our long, dry summers and easy to live with.

Most talked about of the new lantanas are those which evolved through crossing the trailing lavender variety, Lantana sellowiana, with the shrubbier Lantana camara. First of the new breed offered some time back was the variety Goldrush. It proved the most popular new lantana to come along in years.

Today, however, the Goldrush is not alone in the sought after newer types, for countless new brothers and sisters have arrived to steal the show. They carry such fetching names as Confetti, Pink Frolic, Sunburst and Tangerine, and their colors run the gamut. Confetti combines yellow, pink and purple. Pink Frolic is pink and yellow. Sunburst is a bright yellow, and Tangerine is colored as the name suggests. The plants are literally smothered with blooms during the warm months and scattered liberally with them during much of the remaining months. The foliage is a deep green background to the gaily colored blooms.

In growth habit, these newer lantanas are spreading, but not trailing; bushy enough for the foundation planting, but pliable enough to hang over the edge of a retaining wall. We've seen them in containers, too, filling a large redwood tub and overflowing in an umbrella of color. You won't find enough nice things to say about them after you've grown them for a while.

Let's not dwell entirely on the new spreading lantana, however, for that would do injustice to the camara varities, which give us bushier, taller frameworks on which to hang the multi-colored lantana blooms.

Camara or bush lantanas are basically tall shrubs of five or six feet—even more. Here again the hybridist has taken over, creating camara varieties which are quite compact in their growth. They are clean-looking shrubs, with deep green foliage and free-flowering habits.

Trees Give Beauty All Year As Vivid Garden Backgrounds

As backgrounds for a garden setting, certain trees are outstanding. In the texture of their foliage, the framework of their branches and the pattern of their growth, they offer beauty and interest the year around.

Though some use can be made of them for screens and windbreaks, background trees are primarily just for looks. We care not if they cast much shade, but are more concerned with the way their silhouettes show up against the fading light of a summer evening. If they bloom, all the better, but this is not as important as the way they look during the other 11 months of the year when they are not in bloom.

We offer an example which is too large for many town gardens, but which historically has been a tree of beauty when viewed from a distance. This is the stately Lombardy Poplar, an inspiring column of shimmering green in summer and an impressive sight even in winter when its erect framework is barren of leaves.

A single poplar at the rear of a large garden provides interest, and a row of them at the property line is a friendly sight, indeed. Their root systems encroach on neighboring plants, however, which makes them difficult in small city gardens. Reserve them for country places, where they can be used to line a roadway, or otherwise define a line in the landscape. Or try them in out-of-the-way corners of a large city lot. They are also effective on the west downslope of a deep hillside lot, where their tall growth provides respite from an afternoon glare.

The eucalyptus family provides several good background trees—both for small lots and for estate size landscapes. In city gardens, the Red Iron Bark variety makes an eye-catching contributions, as a specimen tree for a rear corner or in a row down the backside of the lot. Its leaves are narrow and pointed, hanging loosely and gracefully i na lacy pattern against which clusters of pink bloom appear in spring and summer. A columnar tree, it grows to 35 or 40 feet high with a spread of no more than eight or ten feet. The bark splits open to reveal red or coral underlayers.

A tree that has given generations of Californians pleasure to view from a distance is the Queen Palm with its towering pole-like trunk and feather-duster top of green.

In small gardens, a group of two or three Queen Palms makes a nice silhouette against the sky. In larger gardens a row of them can be used to mark the rear boundary line, and in country places, they can be used to line a roadway, providing a landmark that you can see from great distances as you approach. They need little root space, so are ideally suited to cramped quarters, and if you object to the bare look of the trunk from close up, try plantings a low-growing palm such as the Pindo Palm as a companion to the Queen Palm.

There are many other trees to use as backgrounds. Conifers such as Monterey Pine or Italian Stone Pine with their spreading branches are good choices. The Maidenhair Tree, especially the variety Autumn Gold, is a tree of interest throughout the year, particularly in fall when it turns vivid yellow before dropping its leaves. You can play it by ear in selecting your background trees. Just remember that you're looking for interesting growth patterns and graceful carriage rather than shade or other practical assets.
